2024 COMMENCEMENT

THE ACADEMIC PROCESSION

The academic procession is composed of the faculty, staff, officers, trustees and most honored guests of the University. Faculty enter by college, and each college is preceded by its marshal, a senior faculty member, with the college baton. The college banners are placed on the stage. Each banner is a combination of colors that declare the disciplines taught in that college.

Collegiate faculty follow their marshal in order of academic rank wearing academic costumes of medieval origin. Those who have received their degrees from institutions outside the United States wear costumes specified by the awarding institutions. Academic costumes of faculty whose degrees are from institutions in the United States are specified by a uniform code maintained by the American Council on Education. Caps are black and are usually mortar boards with tassels. Doctors of philosophy wear gold tassels usually of metallic thread; other degrees wear black or discipline colors.

The bachelor's gown is simple and black with long, pointed sleeves. Master's gowns, also black, are longer than bachelor's gowns. Older gowns have sleeves that terminate at the elbow, while those since 1960 have sleeves extended to the wrist. Doctor's gowns are full, with bell-like sleeves. The front is marked by velvet panels, and the sleeves are marked by three velvet bars. While most gowns are black with black velvet, one variation is to replace black velvet with velvet in the discipline color. A second variation is a colored gown usually of the university's colors.

All hoods specify the level of degree, the type of discipline studied and the awarding institution. First, degree level is signified by the size of the hood with bachelor's the smallest, master's larger and doctor's quite large and of a different shape. Clemson does not award hoods to bachelors. The width of the velvet trim also conveys the degree. Secondly, the degree is indicated by the color of the trim edging the hood to form the throat over the gown. The most frequently seen is dark blue, which designates the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) degree. Finally, the color of the hood's lining specifies the awarding institution. The colors are displayed in combinations that are drawn from heraldry. Notice that the Clemson University hood is lined with purple through which is an orange chevron (a "V"). Although many combinations are duplicated by dozens of institutions, Clemson is presently the only institution with that registered combination.

The officers, trustees and honored guests wear academic, ecclesiastical or military regalia as set forth by their professions. The president of Clemson University wears a purple gown with four velvet bars piped in orange and the University seal embroidered on the panels. Each trustee wears a similar gown with three velvet bars piped in orange for doctorates and an embroidered palmetto tree on each sleeve for those who do not hold doctorates. Hoods are either from Clemson or from the awarding school. They are preceded by the University marshal. Clad in a gown of office in gold and purple, the marshal wears no hood and bears the University mace. At the ceremony's close, the faculty do not exit as a part of the recessional but are dismissed, along with students and guests, when the marshal leaves the coliseum.

HISTORICAL STATEMENT

Clemson University is named for Thomas Green Clemson (1807–1888), who left the bulk of his estate to the state of South Carolina for the founding of the institution.

Thomas Clemson was born in Philadelphia in 1807 and was educated at the Royal School of Mines in Paris (1828–1832). His early profession was that of a mining engineer; however, circumstances diverted his interests into politics and the life of a southern planter, and he soon became an enthusiastic advocate of scientific agriculture. He had a career as a diplomat (chargé d'affaires to Belgium, 1844–1852) and served as the first superintendent of agricultural affairs in Washington (1860). As a scientist, he published numerous articles in the fields of mining, chemistry and agriculture. His varied activities included his assistance in the founding of the Maryland Agricultural College, his support of the Morrill Act, his leadership in South Carolina after the Civil War and his part in founding Clemson University.

Thomas Clemson was the son-in-law of John C. Calhoun, a South Carolina political figure of national importance during the first half of the 19th century. Mr. Calhoun's home, Fort Hill, is preserved on the Clemson campus as a national shrine.

The academic program at Clemson College began in 1893 with an enrollment of 446. The first "college prospectus" announced only two, four-year curricula, supplemented by two two-year preparatory courses. Today, the University has nine major academic units. These are the College of Agriculture, Forestry and Life Sciences; the College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities; the College of Behavioral, Social and Health Sciences; the Wilbur O. and Ann Powers College of Business; the College of Education; the College of Engineering, Computing and Applied Sciences; the College of Science; the College of Veterinary Medicine; and the Graduate School.

Clemson University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to award the bachelor's, master's, education specialist and doctoral degrees.

Clemson is a land-grant institution. As such, it is engaged not only in its primary academic program but does extensive research at the main campus and at six Research and Education Centers located across the state. The University is also heavily committed to a varied program of public service, including the work of agricultural Extension, which has professional personnel located in each of the state's 46 counties.

THE POSTHUMOUS AWARDING OF HONORARY DEGREES TO JOSEPH ARMSTRONG DE LAINE AND MATTIE BELTON DE LAINE

Clemson University celebrates their legacy and is honored to highlight their service and sacrifice, preserving the narrative denied to them during their lifetime and careers in South Carolina.

Clemson University confers honorary degrees in recognition of eminent achievement in scholarship or creativity, or of high distinction in service to humanity, including meritorious contributions to the University. The awarding of honorary degrees is to be regarded as a method by which the University expresses its ideals and recognizes exceptional attainments.

JOSEPH ARMSTRONG DE LAINE SR., JULY 2, 1898–AUGUST 3, 1974

Educator and minister Joseph Armstrong De Laine was deeply committed to uplifting and improving the condition of children during segregation. The eighth child of Tisbia and Henry Charles De Laine, De Laine was born on July 2, 1898, near Manning, South Carolina, located in Clarendon County. He earned a bachelor's degree to teach and a bachelor's degree to become an ordained minister in the AME church, both from Allen University.

In 1954, the landmark Supreme Court case Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka was filed, declaring school segregation based upon race to be a violation of the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. “Brown” was not a single case, however, nor was it isolated to Topeka, Kansas, where Brown was located. Instead, it was the consolidation of five separate cases nationwide, including a South Carolina (Clarendon County) case: Briggs v. Elliott, which was the “seminal” case that transformed the racial demographic of public education in America.

Joseph Armstrong “J. A.” De Laine played a courageous and particularly unique role in Briggs v. Elliott. Twenty petitioners signed on to the lawsuit to oppose legally sanctioned segregation; many lost their jobs and their homes and suffered economic ostracism or had their lives threatened. The De Laines were not among the petitioners in the case but similarly suffered as a result of their advocacy and involvement; their home and church burned down — both in Summerton and where he presided in Lake City. De Laine’s livelihood in South Carolina came to a dramatic close on October 10, 1955, when night riders attacked his Lake City residence. He returned fire, as instructed by local police, to mark the car and identify the culprit or culprits. Instead, rather than being protected, he was charged with assault and battery with intent to kill.

J. A. De Laine escaped South Carolina that night, with his wife and fellow educator Mattie Belton De Laine and their children joining him later. The De Laines remained exiled from their beloved South Carolina homeland for the rest of their lives. The state exonerated De Laine of the charges 26 years after his death, and he posthumously received the Congressional Gold Medal of Honor in recognition of his transformative servant leadership. Without J. A. De Laine’s determined efforts, fearless leadership, sacrifice and undying faith, there would not have been a “Briggs” case. The story of “Briggs” is the story of J. A. De Laine.

Joseph Armstrong De Laine died on August 3, 1974, in Charlotte, North Carolina.

MATTIE BELTON DE LAINE,

DECEMBER 1, 1907–DECEMBER 17, 1999

Mattie Belton was born on December 1, 1907, to Josephine and David Belton in Smallwood, South Carolina, in Fairfield County. She was the only girl among seven boys; her father and brothers worked as farmers on property they either rented or owned in Fairfield County. They grew everything they ate and made their own clothes.

Mattie Belton didn't start first grade until she was 9 years old at the Johnson Free School for Black Children and attended no more than five years. Disenchanted with the poor quality of the Johnson Free School, which ran for only three months of the year, her father sent her to the Lebanon Presbyterian School, which ran seven months long about 5 miles away from their home. However, Lebanon charged fees that her parents could not always pay, which often kept Mattie at home and prevented her from advancing grade levels. Mattie finished the eighth grade in a boarding school and subsequently left home to attend Benedict College. Benedict made her repeat eighth grade because the Benedict teachers felt she wasn't "adequately prepared." Though deeply "disappointed" and "discouraged," according to journals, Mattie was determined to be a teacher, so she agreed to repeat the coursework.

In 1930, South Carolina public schools changed from graduating at 12th grade to 11th grade; however,

Benedict required its students to finish 12th grade. Mattie was 23 years old when she finished at Benedict and was one of the last 12th grade graduates in the state for the next 20 years. Mattie completed the high school curriculum specializing in elementary school science and became a qualified teacher. It took her another 13 straight summers to earn enough credits to eventually earn her bachelor's degree and advanced teaching certificate.

Mattie Belton's first job teaching was as the only teacher in a one-teacher school in Longtown, South Carolina. She taught all seven grades attended by more than 90 students; about half were present on any given day.

During that time, she met J. A. De Laine at a church conference, where he expressed that he had taken a job as principal of the Jamison School in Orangeburg County, South Carolina. He encouraged her to accept an opening for a teaching position there, which she pursued. They were married in November 1931.

Mattie Belton De Laine's life is a testimony of love, hardship, perseverance, determination, sacrifice and unshakeable faith until her death on December 17, 1999. The De Laines raised three children who later had distinguished professional careers. The De Laines are survived by two of their children, Joseph Armstrong De Laine Jr. and Ophelia De Laine Gona; the youngest, Bummit "BB" De Laine, served as an educator in Charlotte, North Carolina, before his death.

CLEMSON ALMA MATER

FARMER AND MCGARITY/ARR. FREEMAN

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness,
Where the Tigers play;

Here the sons of dear old Clemson
Reign supreme alway.

We will dream of greater conquests,
For our past is grand,

And her sons have fought and conquered
Every foreign land.

Where the mountains smile in grandeur
O'er the hill and dale.

Here the Tiger lair is nestling
Swept by storm and gale.

We are brothers strong in manhood,
For we work and strive;

And our alma mater reigneth
Ever in our lives.

CHORUS

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might,

That the Tiger's roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.
