Clemson vs. Ball State

This is Clemson Football

Steve Fuller 5

ACC 50-Year Anniversary Player
There was a lot at stake for Steve Fuller and Clemson in 1977. The Tigers suffered consecutive losing years in 1975 and 1976. But behind Fuller, Clemson returned to prominence the next two seasons. Today we look at the two-time ACC Player-of-the-Year and one of the 50 best players in ACC history.

John Lovett 7

Defensive Coordinator

The first-year defensive coordinator, who joined the staff from Auburn in late January, has made quite an impact in his short time at Clemson. The Nyack, NY native's approach as the defensive coordinator and defensive backs coach has been compared to that of a successful professor.

ACC Excellence 10-11

ACC 50-Year Anniversary

Clemson is a charter member of the ACC, which is celebrating its 50th year. Today, Clemson holds its own on-campus celebration. Clemson football has had a significant impact on the league, from the 1981 National Championship, to having the most players named to the 50-Year Anniversary team.

Tony Elliott 15

Senior Spotlight

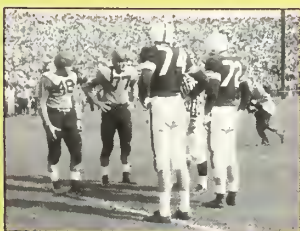

Dedicated, hard-working, focused, unselfish, dependable...these are just a few words used by some of his coaches and teammates to describe the senior receiver. Elliott has overcome the death of his mother and the absence of his father to become a scholarship player and a future Clemson graduate.

Bubba Brown 49

Greatest ACC Performances

The linebacker who barely stood six-feet tall overcame his stature as well as the odds to excel at Clemson. His heart and passion for the game was immeasurable, and it was never more evident than in the 1978 Gator Bowl win over Ohio State, a game that saw him make 22 tackles, still a Clemson bowl record.

The 1952 Clemson Tigers .. 108

50-Year Anniversary

The 1950s was a watershed decade for Clemson football. In particular, the 1952 season was a milestone season in school history, but not because of its record. It was a trying season, but one that set the groundwork for outstanding Clemson teams to come. Many of the players on that team are here today.

Clemson and Ball State Coming Off Big Wins

Both teams in today's game will be entering Death Valley after emotional home victories last weekend. Clemson defeated Georgia Tech 24-19 thanks to the first career interception by Eric Sampson at the Clemson 16-yard line with just 1:12 left in the game. Ball State defeated state-rival Indiana State 23-21 in Muncie, IN last Saturday.

Clemson showed a much improved offense and continued improvement of defense in gaining its second straight victory over Georgia Tech, and handing Chan Gailey his first loss as Georgia Tech head coach. The Tigers had a balanced attack, with 195 yards rushing and 176 yards passing.

Derrick Hamilton had the best all-around game of his Clemson career with 256 all-purpose yards, fifth best in Clemson history. A receiver by trade, Hamilton had 97 yards rushing in just five attempts. That performance included a 77-yard run in the first quarter that gave the Tigers a 10-0 lead. It was the longest run by a Clemson player since 1993, when another Derrick, Derrick Witherspoon, raced 89 yards for a score against Maryland.

Hamilton also had a 79-yard punt return in the game and finished the day with 96 yards on punt returns. It was the longest punt return by a Tiger since Brian Mance went 88 yards against Georgia Tech in 2000. Hamilton came close to becoming the first player in Clemson history with at least 100 yards rushing and 100 yards in punt returns in the same game. Hamilton's 256 all-purpose yards were just 18 short of Terrence Flagler's Tiger single-game record of 274, set at Wake Forest in 1986.

Willie Simmons had another solid performance, hitting 18-31 passes for 176 yards and two scores. His favorite target in terms of yardage was senior walk-on Tony Elliott. Elliott began his career at Air Force Prep School in Colorado, then transferred to Clemson in 1999. He had three catches for 85 yards and his first career touchdown against the Yellow Jackets. Tight end Bobby Williamson also caught his first touchdown pass on a two-yard "push pass" from Simmons that resembled an Edward Scott chest pass in an ACC basketball game.

Yusef Kelly supported Hamilton with a workman-like 20 carries for 89 yards, including a 25-yarder late in the fourth quarter when Clemson was trying to run time off the clock.

But, it was the defense in the end that made key plays for the Tigers. Georgia Tech drove to the Clemson 29 with under 1:30 left. But A.J. Suggs' pass over the middle was intercepted by Eric Sampson, who returned the theft 35 yards to ice the game. Each of the last two times, the Yellow Jackets had come to Clemson they broke Clemson's heart with a score inside the last minute of play to gain victory. But, Sampson ended that streak, much to the delight of the Clemson faithful.

The play might have erased the memory of last year's Virginia game. A year ago in the season's third game, Clemson led Virginia 24-20 with under two minutes left. The Cavaliers drove 44 yards to score the winning touchdown with just one second left. This time, Georgia Tech, the season's third opponent, trailed Clemson by almost the same score, but the Tiger defense came up with the turnover to clinch the victory.

Ball State Comes to Clemson Off Big Victory

Ball State will come to Clemson off a two-point victory over Indiana State. The two schools are state rivals, but had not played since the 1991 season. Senior Marcus Merriweather rushed 27 times for 146 yards and three scores to lead Ball State.

The Ball State offense was balanced and efficient. The Cardinals, coached by Bill Lynch, had 185 yards rushing as a team, and quarterback Talmadge Hill completed 20-26 passes for 150 yards. Jason Barnes led the receivers with seven catches for 54 yards.

Lorenzo Scott leads the Ball State defense this season with 23 tackles, including 11 stops in the win over Indiana State. Douglas Owusu had an interception, a tackle for loss, and five tackles to provide support. Ball State's defense has given up one big play, an 84-yard pass completion. The Cardinals were sound other than that play, allowing Indiana State to convert on third down just 2-9 occasions.

Second Meeting Between Tigers and Cardinals

This will be the second meeting between Clemson and Ball State on the gridiron. The two teams met at Clemson on September 5, 1992, and the Tigers came away with a 24-10 victory under Head Coach Ken Hatfield. It was the season opener for both clubs.

Clemson entered the game 13th in the country according to the Associated Press, and was coming off a 9-2-1 season and an ACC Championship. But, the Tigers had lost many outstanding players to the professional ranks, including Chester McGlockton and Levon Kirkland, who are both still in the NFL today.

The contest proved to be a defensive struggle, as the two teams both failed to reach 330 yards of total offense. In fact, Ball State out-gained Clemson 328 to 291 and ran 84 plays to Clemson's 65. The Tigers ran the ball successfully, gaining 255 yards, while Ball State had 208 yards passing through the air.

Clemson was led by Rodney Blunt, who had 20 carries for 96 yards. Ronald Williams, who is still a professional in the Canadian Football league, added 8-58 rushing and a touchdown. Williams was coming off a 1991 season in which he had suffered a torn ACL. Quarterback Richard Moncrief had 10-57 rushing, but completed just 4-11 for 36 yards in Clemson's option offense.

Ball State's offense was led by Mike Neu, who completed 25 of 48 passes for 208 yards and a touchdown, and Corey Croom, who rushed 32 times for 135 yards. The carry total is still fifth-most ever against Clemson.

The Clemson defense was led by Tim Jones, who had 12 tackles, an interception, and two tackles for loss, and Robert O'Neal, who had 11 tackles. Defensive lineman Brentson Buckner, now in the NFL with the Carolina Panthers, had nine tackles as well.

Clemson held just a 10-7 lead at intermission, as a five-yard scoring pass from Neu to Brian Oliver with just 12 seconds left in the half made the score a three-point game at intermission. Clemson scored two rushing touchdowns in the fourth quarter, however, to put the game away.

Clemson and Ball State are scheduled to meet again at Clemson on November 2, 2006.

ACC vs. MAC

Believe it or not, today's game between Clemson and Ball State is one of three matchups of the Atlantic Coast Conference vs. the Mid-American Conference today. Heading into games of September 21, the MAC had a 2-1 lead in head-to-head matchups so far this year.

That record must bring a smile to the face of second-year MAC Commissioner Rick Chryst, who has done a wonderful job with the conference in terms of television and bowl game exposure. Chryst came to the MAC after serving as assistant commissioner of the ACC for nine years.

In addition to the Clemson-Ball State game today, Akron will play at Virginia and Eastern Michigan travels to Maryland in the other MAC-ACC matchups. Earlier this year, Miami (OH) won at North Carolina 27-21, and Wake Forest lost at Northern Illinois 42-41 in overtime. The ACC's only win over the MAC so far this year took place at Maryland, where the Terrapins defeated the Akron Zips 44-14 on September 7.

Clemson has a 1-1 lifetime record against the MAC. The Tigers defeated Ball State, a member of the MAC since 1973, by a 24-10 score in 1992. Marshall defeated Clemson 13-10 in 1999, the first game of the Tommy Bowden era. The only previous contest for Ball State against an ACC team was at Clemson in 1992.

Derrick Hamilton had 256 all-purpose yards, including a 77-yard touchdown run, against Georgia Tech last weekend.

Merriweather Will Challenge Tiger Defense

Clemson's defensive front seven will have its hands full this afternoon when it faces one of the top running backs in the nation. Ball State senior Marcus Merriweather is a preseason Doak Walker Award candidate who has the stats to back up his candidacy. He is one of 10 returning starters for Ball State's offense this year.

Merriweather already has a pair of 1,000-yard seasons to his credit, as he ranked 10th in the nation a year ago with a 124.4-yards per game average. He set a school record with 1,244 yards and was a First-Team All-MAC performer. In 2000, as a sophomore, he gained 1,004 yards (exact same total Woodrow Dantzler had last year) to rank 26th in the nation on a per-game basis.

Merriweather needs just 839 rushing yards this year to become the school's career leader. That record is held by Bernie Parmalee, who played at Ball State from 1987-90 before a nine-season NFL career with the Dolphins and Jets. Looks like Merriweather will follow him to the NFL.

Merriweather had seven 100-yard games last year after recording four 100-yard performances over the last five games of his sophomore year. That stretch run included a career-best 257 yards in 42 carries against Central Michigan on October 28. That performance shows the durability of the 6-1, 215-pound runningback from Fort Wayne, IN.

So far this year, Merriweather is among the national rushing leaders with 261 yards in 53 attempts in two games, an average of 130.5 yards per game. He has gone over 100 yards in each of the first two games. He also has four receptions out of the backfield.

Ball State Facts

- The list of Ball State alums includes CBS Late Night talk show host David Letterman. Other well-known alums include James Davis, the creator of the cartoon "Garfield", Kent Nelson, CEO of UPS, ESPN Sportscenter anchor Betsy Ross, and Dr. John Seffrin, CEO of the American Cancer Society.
- The Ball State record for career yards per carry is held by Merv Rettenmund, who went on to play 13 years and over 1,000 games in the Major Leagues with four teams, including the Baltimore Orioles. Rettenmund averaged 7.6 yards per carry between 1962-64 for the Cardinals as well.
- Ball State has been a member of the MAC since 1973. It has had a football team since 1924. It last won the MAC and went to a bowl game in 1996, when it was 7-1 in the conference and 8-4 overall.
- Both teams can boast of academic excellence. Clemson has eight graduate students on its team this year, including seven starters, most on one team in school history. Ball State had a team GPA of 2.90 for the spring semester last year and 36 players had a GPA of 3.0 or better.
- Both schools are similar in size when it comes to enrollment. Ball State has a student enrollment of 17,622, just about 500 more than Clemson's enrollment figure.
- Both schools have athletic directors in their first years with the program. Clemson's Terry Don Phillips came to Clemson from Oklahoma State in July, while Ball State's Bubba Cunningham came to Ball State after serving as an associate AD at Notre Dame in August.

Eason Has Big Day Against Georgia Tech

Nick Eason had a lot to do with Clemson's victory over Georgia Tech. The graduate student had two sacks and two total tackles for loss in the victory. He was a big reason Georgia Tech quarterback A.J. Suggs had -50 yards rushing in the game.

It marked the first time in his career that he had two sacks in the same game. He now has 25 career tackles for loss, first among active Tigers. Clemson's defense had five sacks against Georgia Tech and continually forced pressure on Suggs. Clemson allowed just 303 yards of total offense and the Tigers now are allowing 266 yards per game for the season. That is an improvement of nearly 130 yards per game over last year.

Tigers Celebrate 50 Years of ACC Excellence

Clemson will celebrate its 50 years of excellence in the Atlantic Coast Conference today. Throughout the summer and fall, the ACC has named 50-Year anniversary teams in all sports. Most teams are composed of a top 50 in each sport and Clemson has been well represented. In all the sports combined, Clemson had 145 selections to these teams, as many of the selections will be on hand today and will be honored at halftime.

Clemson had nine players named to the 50-Year anniversary football team, more than any other school. Throughout the year, we will feature these players in our football program series. Clemson also had the top figure for men's tennis (15), baseball (12), men's golf (12), and men's soccer (12).

Two of the selections are still playing for Clemson, golfer D.J. Trahan and women's basketball player Chrissy Floyd. The selections date to the 1960s, when Jim Moorhead competed for the Tigers in men's track and Rusty Adkins earned All-America honors on the baseball diamond. We welcome all these Tiger greats back to the Clemson campus today.

Other prominent former Clemson athletes expected to be in attendance today for the halftime ceremonies are Tree Rollins, Terry Kinard, Joe Bostic, Jeff Davis, Steve Fuller, Barbara Kennedy, Jamine Moton, Tina Krebs, Bert Heffernan, Jean Desdunes, Clyde Browne, and Rusty Gerhardt.

Clemson Graduate Designed Logo

What started out as an internet search for fresh ideas has turned into a ticket to some of the ACC's most exciting upcoming 50th Anniversary events, not to mention a place in the conference's history books for Clemson graduate T.J. Harley.

Harley needed some ideas back in the summer of 2001 for some t-shirt designs that he was planning for Clemson's 20th anniversary celebration of the school's 1981 football national championship. At the time, Harley was working as a student at one of Clemson's downtown t-shirt stores, Tigertown Graphics.

The search took him to theacc.com for what he thought would be a search for some different logo ideas. Harley had no idea the ACC was looking for some ideas of its own. In May of 2001, the ACC announced a contest that gave current students, faculty, and staff members at all nine member institutions the opportunity to submit ideas for the conference's 50th anniversary logo.

Nick Eason had two sacks last weekend against Georgia Tech. He is a leader on a defense that ranks 17th in the nation in total yards allowed per game.

"Some of the most creative minds in the country reside on our campuses, and we'd love to have their quality of work represent the ACC in this important celebration," said ACC Commissioner John Swofford at the time of the contest's announcement.

For Harley, the contest meant another opportunity to display his talents, but there was one problem. He almost found out about the contest too late.

"I noticed that the contest deadline was the next day so I immediately stopped working on the Clemson shirt and spent the next couple hours working on a design for the ACC," Harley recalled.

Those couple of hours turned out to produce the ACC's 50th Anniversary logo.

The logo will represent the conference's expansive marketing efforts to promote the ACC's 50th Anniversary celebration. You can also see the result of his design on Frank Howard Field and all ACC fields this year.

Founded in 1953, the ACC is celebrating its 50th year this year and will conclude the year with a Gala at the Greensboro Coliseum in March. For his efforts, Harley will receive two tickets to the Gala as well as tickets to the 2003 ACC men's and women's basketball tournaments.

The vast nature of the 50th Anniversary celebration will expose his work through several mediums, including newspaper, television, internet, souvenir, and apparel items. The exposure will not stop there though. As part of the celebration, the ACC has a historical book and video in the works.

Harley's design potential hasn't gone unnoticed. The recent graphic communications graduate has secured a job with Collegiate Licensing Company (CLC), which is based in Atlanta, GA.

Note: Clemson had more players chosen to the ACC 50-Year Anniversary Football team than any other school. Throughout the season we will highlight the career of all nine former Tigers who were named. Today we feature Steve Fuller.

There was a lot at stake for Steve Fuller and the Clemson Tigers in 1977. Clemson suffered consecutive losing seasons (2-9 in 1975 and 3-6-2 in 1976) with perhaps the lone highlight of that two-year span coming at Death Valley in the form of a 28-9 victory against a very good South Carolina team in 1976.

Upon taking the reigns at the beginning of the 1977 season, Charley Pell was given the task not only of restoring Clemson Football to its former greatness in the eyes of Tiger fans, but introducing Clemson as a force to be reckoned with on the national level. The Tigers had not been to a bowl game in 18 years and had been absent from the final top-20 poll since 1959.

Coach Pell turned to a lot of players for leadership heading into that 1977 season, but one player stood out, Steve Fuller. The native of Spartanburg, SC was a junior that season. He matured during that season and his senior year into one of the top all-around quarterbacks in Clemson history. As a result, he will be honored today as one of the top-50 football players in ACC history.

Fuller was a two-time ACC Player-of-the-Year, the only Clemson player to accomplish that feat. He was named a Third-Team AP All-American in 1978 and he was a two-time First-Team Academic All-American with over a 3.9 career GPA. He was inducted into the Clemson Ring of Honor in 1994, a charter member, for his all-around achievements at Clemson.

Fuller made a huge impact on Clemson's football heritage and it all started in 1977.

"We had a coaching change going into '77 and that was the biggest issue to be dealt with," said Fuller, who is also joined by many of his teammates for the 1977 team reunion today.

"Coach (Red) Parker was gone after some tough decision-making times - obviously it's tough when you have a coach that's been there and been successful," said Fuller. "We knew Coach Pell, because he'd been working with our defense under Coach Parker - but the adjustments that a bunch of 17, 18, and 19-year-old kids had to make with a new coach were substantial."

Although Pell was seemingly looking at an uphill battle, the Tigers felt like they had the talent and experience to make the turnaround possible. And Fuller was an integral piece of the Tiger lineup.

"We knew we had talent," recalled Fuller. "We had a freshman class in '75 that played a bunch of football and a group that came in the following year that also played a bunch of football. Part of the reason that we were 2-9 and 3-6-2 was the fact that we were very young and the coaching staff, the administration, the alumni - everyone bought into the fact that we were going to take our licks and bruises for a couple years to try and get the program turned around.

"Part of that was playing young, inexperienced guys. I don't care who you have - we had future All-American players in Jerry Butler, Joe Bostic, and Jim Stuckey, but when you're fresh out of high school and haven't played college football before, you're going to take some lumps. A lot of the mistakes you make you're going to have to make on the field."

Fuller and the Tigers had apparently learned their lessons well. Going into the game at Williams-Brice Stadium on November 19, 1977, the Tigers were 7-2-1 and ranked 15th in the country. The Gamecocks entered the game with a 5-5 record; and while a .500 mark is considered average, the Gamecocks could have easily come into the game at 8-2, as they lost three games by four points or less.

The game lived up to the rivalry as both teams battled hard throughout the afternoon. The Tigers jumped out to a 24-0 lead only to see it vanish in the fourth quarter. With 49 seconds left, the Tigers were facing a likely 27-24 loss at the hands of the Gamecocks. Then came the play that the Palmetto State will forever refer to as "The Catch."

"The '76 Carolina game was the positive stepping stone going into '77 - I think everyone would agree to that," said Fuller. "We beat a team that was an outright favorite, had been a nationally-ranked team, and we just weren't supposed to win that game. We did it and we did it fairly convincingly. In '77 we'd had an excellent year and they were a little bit down. We were at their place, and really dominated the game for three quarters.

"All of a sudden I looked up, and I'm still not sure how but we had taken a 24-0 lead and ran into a 27-24 deficit. There was nothing in the game that indicated that this turn around was going to happen. But then we just had to strap it on and prove that we were the better team. At that point in time, the experience really came into play. There was never a doubt in that huddle whatsoever that we weren't going to take that ball down the field and score a touchdown. You could see it in people's eyes - you know we weren't taking it for granted but it was expected. Guys went out and did their jobs, and did them professionally."

Steve Fuller paced Clemson to an 11-1 season in 1978, a year in which he was a third-team All-American on the field and a first-team Academic All-American off the field.

Fuller dropped back to pass, and hurled the ball high over the head of Jerry Butler who no doubt jumped the highest he ever had in his life to bring down the ball, a touchdown, and a Tiger victory. They did their jobs. They did them professionally - so it comes as no surprise that both men went on to successful NFL careers.

By the end of the 1977 season, Tiger faithful would claim that Pell had begun the journey uphill, full-steam ahead. The program took two giant steps in 1977 by earning a Gator Bowl bid and climbing back into the top 20 (#19 final AP ranking). The groundwork had been laid for a top-10 season in 1978, and then a national championship run in 1981.

As many Tiger lettermen will tell you, regardless of sport, when an ACC championship or national championship is attained, the press and the fans may focus on the men and women who wore the jersey that day - but the Tigers understood that so many more people deserve credit for such an accomplishment. Fuller was in his third year in the NFL in 1981, but he was just as much a part of that Orange Bowl victory as anyone else.

"I think if you go back to the '74 team, which most people don't remember much, they had a very successful conference schedule, went undefeated at home, and provided the impetus for the next recruiting class," said Fuller. "We were lousy for two years, but the turnaround in '77-'78, not only solidified an expectation of winning, but it also allowed the coaching staff to go out on the road and get the players they wanted to get.

"When '81 came around, we all felt a part of that accomplishment. It was rewarding for the players and the coaches of the 1977 and 1978 teams. I think it was a coming together of generations, coaching staffs, and players from a bunch of teams to get to that point. It was quite an accomplishment."

Andy Heck, a second-year graduate student from Austin, TX, is a graduate assistant in the Clemson Sports Information Office.

Fuller was inducted as a charter member into Clemson's Ring of Honor in 1994.

Clemson senior cornerback Brian Mance has a checklist when heading to his next class. Text Book...Check. Pen and Pencil...Check. Notebook...Check.

Mance's class schedule may take him to Martin Hall or Strode Tower on the picturesque Clemson campus, but his football lecture takes place in the McFadden Building and football practice fields under new Tiger Defensive Coordinator and Defensive Backs Coach John Lovett.

Lovett, who joined the coaching staff in late January, has made quite an impact in his short time at Clemson. His approach as the defensive coordinator and defensive backs coach has been compared to that of a successful professor.

"Coach Lovett demands feedback," said Mance. "In our meetings, he always makes sure that everyone is paying attention and grasping the information he has covered."

Lovett's teaching style has shown through early in the 2002 season.

The Tiger defense held #8 Georgia to just 203 total yards in the season opener, the lowest by a Bulldog squad since September of 2000. Georgia's veteran offense, which featured eight returning starters, averaged 432 yards per game last season. The defensive numbers included limiting Georgia to just 117 yards passing, quite a performance against a team that had one of the top-10 receiving units in the nation according to many preseason services. Entering today's game Clemson is 17th in the nation in total defense.

It should come as no surprise that Lovett has been compared to a successful professor. The Nyack, NY native earned an undergraduate degree in history from C.W. Post and a master's degree from the University of Denver. He was both a coach and a physical education teacher at Saint Joseph's Regional High School in New Jersey as well.

It was during his time as a student teacher that Lovett saw the gridiron as a way to use his education skills.

"I enjoyed the classroom," recalled Lovett. "But I felt I could be even closer to the kids and have an even greater impact by coaching. As a coach, you work with a young man all year long. From the weight room, to winter workouts, to spring practice, you are right there with them. The thing you want to impress upon them is responsibility and getting the job done."

Lovett knows all about getting the job done. He has 23 years experience as a college coach, including 13 seasons as a defensive coordinator. Stops along the way include stints at all levels, from small Union College to the football hotbeds of Mississippi and Auburn.

While the size of the schools he has coached has grown considerably, the job he performs remains very similar.

"It is still football regardless of where you are," said Lovett. "At a non-scholarship school, the kids are still playing hard because they want to play the game. But you have to want to play this game in order to be successful. This is a tough, tough game to play. You must have a determination to play well in order to be successful."

The success that Lovett's defensive teams display on the field is just one result of the lessons he impresses upon his players. There will come a day when each player hangs up the cleats for the last time. Lovett wants his players to be ready for that day as well.

"When they leave here, I want them to be accountable," said Lovett. "When college is over, you have to make a living. Business will pay you to perform a task. That is something that I can teach our players every day."

The determination that he demands from his players is a trait that Lovett clearly displayed when he began his coaching journey. As a coach at a small school, he not only coached, but also worked part-time jobs to make ends meet. In fact, it is a safe bet to say John Lovett is the only assistant coach in the Atlantic Coast Conference to have ever driven a Zamboni machine.

"When I was a part-time coach at Union College in Upstate New York, I received a $500 a year stipend to coach," recalled Lovett. "I would work part-time to make ends meet. One winter, I worked the swing shift at the hockey arena. I would get there at 4 AM. One of the things you would have to do every hour is clean the ice."

His dedication and willingness to perform almost any task led Lovett to several stops along the coaching trail. With each stop, he has gained more and more knowledge about directing a defense.

"I have a good network of coaches that I will call and talk 'X's' and 'O's,'" stated Lovett. "The bottom line is we want to win. For us to do that, we need to create turnovers and put our offense in a position to win."

Tim Murphy, the head coach at Harvard, was the head coach at the Cincinnati when Lovett directed the Bearcat defense from 1989-92. He has seen first-hand how Lovett operates.

"John is a guy who is not going to let you beat him with the thing you do best," said Murphy. "He is going to take that away. He is going to make you win left-handed."

As Lovett settles into his first season at Clemson, he is somewhat familiar with the current group of Clemson players and coaches. As an assistant coach at Auburn, he recruited a number of the current Clemson players.

John Lovett has rejuvenated the Tiger defense in his first season as defensive coordinator.

"I know a lot of kids on this team from when I was recruiting at Auburn," said Lovett. "That is how I met Coach Bowden. I had run into him several times on the recruiting trail."

Bowden did run into Lovett during the recruiting season, but an even bigger impression was made when Lovett was on the opposing sideline. During Bowden's first season as a head coach at Tulane, Lovett's defense at Mississippi made a lasting impression.

"I first saw his defense at work when I was at Tulane and he was at Mississippi," recalled Bowden. "His defensive backs were impressive. That was our only loss at Tulane during our last 15 games there."

Since arriving at Clemson, Lovett has been impressed with the environment that will be in full display this afternoon at Death Valley.

"I am sure the stadium will be loud and it will be packed," said Lovett. "This is the type of place where football is important. People around here have high expectations, just as I do."

It should come as no surprise that Lovett has high expectations. Any good teacher does.

Clemson is a charter member of the Atlantic Coast Conference and joins the rest of the league in celebrating its 50th year during the 2002-03 academic year. The conference and its members will celebrate the landmark occasion throughout the coming year. Today, Clemson holds its own on-campus celebration.

Clemson had more players named to the ACC 50-Year Anniversary football team than any other school, an example of the school's impact on the league's program the last 50 years.

Clemson football has had a significant positive impact on the league. The following are some of the highlights of the Clemson program that has helped the league become one of the best in the nation for many years.

Academic Excellence

- Kyle Young and Chad Carson were First-Team Academic All-Americans in 2000 and 2001. Clemson was the only Division I school in the nation with two first-team selections in each season. Young was named a First-Team Academic All-American from 1999-01 and became just the second ACC player in history to be a three-time first-team selection.
- Carson joined Young in graduating from Clemson Summa Cum Laude. In the winter of 2002, he reached the final stage of the Rhodes Scholarship selection process, the only Division I football player in the nation who could make that claim. Carson also won Clemson University's Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award for service to others.
- Clemson's football team posted a 2.56 team GPA for the spring semester of 2002, the second-highest GPA on record. Even though he has served as head coach just seven semesters, each of the top-five team GPA semesters have taken place under Tommy Bowden's watch.
- Eighteen of the 22 seniors on Clemson's 2001 team already have their degrees. Two more will join them this year. Clemson had seven players in its starting lineup who played the 2001 season as graduate students. The 2002 Clemson team has eight graduates on its roster.

All-Americans

- Clemson had four players earn All-America honors in 2000, tied for the second-highest single-season total in school history. Only the 1981 National Championship team had more.
- Kyle Young was a second-team selection by Football News and a third-team choice by The Sporting News in 2001. Young was also one of three finalists for the Rimington Award, which is given to the nation's top center in 2000 and 2001. He was also an All-American in the classroom, becoming just the second Clemson player to do the on-field/academic double in the same year.
- Clemson has had a history of decorated football players. The program boasts 46 different All-America players since the ACC was founded. The program has had at least one All-American in 25 of the last 26 years, the only ACC team that can make that claim.
- Clemson had nine players named to the ACC 50-Year Anniversary team, more than any other school. The nine players were Joe Bostic, Jerry Butler, Bennie Cunningham, Jeff Davis, Steve Fuller, Terry Kinard, Michael Dean Perry, William Perry, and Anthony Simmons. All nine were All-Americans at least once and all played in the NFL.

Bowl Games

- Clemson has been to 25 bowl games in its history, one of the top-20 totals in college football history. Clemson's 13 wins and 53-percent winning percentage also rank among the top 20 in college football history.
- Clemson won five straight bowl games between 1986-90, one of the top bowl winning streaks in college football history. Clemson defeated Stanford, Penn State, Oklahoma, West Virginia, and Illinois during the stretch.
- Clemson has beaten some of the top coaches in college football history in bowl competition. Among the list of celebrated coaches who have lost to Clemson in bowl competition since the ACC was founded are Joe Paterno (winningest coach in Division I on a total-victories basis), Barry Switzer (fourth-winningest Division I coach on a winning-percentage basis), and Tom Osborne (fifth-winningest Division I coach on a winning-percentage basis). Hall of Fame Coach Woody Hayes suffered his final loss against Clemson in 1978 at the Gator Bowl.

Coaching Success

- Clemson has a legendary history when it comes to coaching. Three former Tiger mentors (Frank Howard, John Heisman, and Jess Neely) are already in the College Football Hall of Fame. Howard was Clemson's coach when the ACC was founded and promptly took the Tigers to six conference championships.
- Danny Ford coached Clemson to the National Championship in 1981 and won six bowl games in his Clemson career, second on the all-time ACC coaching list. His 76-percent winning percentage is also second best in ACC history.
- Current Clemson Head Coach Tommy Bowden has continued the tradition of outstanding Clemson coaches by leading the Tigers to bowl games each of his first three years, the only coach in Clemson history to do that. He was named the ACC Coach-of-the-Year in 1999.

Death Valley

- Clemson Memorial Stadium, known as Death Valley, has been Clemson's home since the ACC was founded. In 2001, it was listed as the top stadium in the ACC by The Sporting News. Many times in the last decade it has ranked among the top-10 football stadiums in the nation. Clemson ranked seventh in the nation in total attendance in 2000 and has been ranked among the top 20 in the nation in average attendance 19 years in a row.
- The stadium is the center of many Clemson traditions. According to many, the Tigers have the top stadium entrance in all of sports. The team enters the stadium from the top of a hill at the East end of the stadium. Prior to running down the 100-foot hill, the team rubs Howard's Rock for inspiration. It is electrifying for the 85,000 Clemson fans who have come to root on the Tigers.
- Clemson Memorial Stadium has been the site of many memorable games, including the first meeting of father and son coaches in Division I history. That contest took place in 1999, when the Bowdens met in a memorable game in Death Valley.

First-Round Selections

- Rod Gardner became the 20th first-round draft pick in Clemson history when he was selected as the #15 pick in the first round by the Washington Redskins in April, 2001. Gardner finished his career as the school's all-time leading receiver and was third in total reception yardage.
- Gardner set an example for all future Clemson football players to follow. He was a first-team All-American, a first-round draft choice, and graduated in May, 2001. Few college football players could boast of that triple that year.
- Clemson has had a first-round draft choice four of the last six years. The list includes Trevor Pryce, Frank Howard was a Hall of Fame coach at Clemson for the school's first 17 seasons in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

50 Years of ACC Excellence already an All-Pro with the Denver Broncos, and Anthony Simmons, the top tackler for the Seattle Seahawks in 2000.

Hall of Fame

- Former Clemson All-America defensive back Terry Kinard was enshrined into the College Football Hall of Fame in December, 2001 in New York City. He was also inducted into the Clemson Ring of Honor in 2001.
- Kinard is the only Clemson football player to win a national individual award. He was named the 1982 National Defensive Player-of-the-Year by CBS Sports. That year, his senior season, he was a unanimous first-team All-American, the only unanimous All-American in Clemson football history.
- Clemson had a special night in New York City on December 11, 2001. That evening, Terry Kinard was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame and Kyle Young was named a recipient of a National Football Foundation Scholar-Athlete Award. Clemson was the only school in the nation with one of each in 2001.

National Championship Tradition

- The 2001 season marked the 20-year anniversary of the greatest accomplishment in Clemson football history. The Tigers were national champions by every service in 1981, as they were the only school in the nation with a perfect (12-0) record. The season included three wins over top-10 teams (Georgia, North Carolina, and Nebraska), the only team in college football to beat three top-10 teams in 1981. This was just the second national championship in football for an ACC school.
- The 1981 team had five All-Americans on its roster, including first-team selections Terry Kinard, Jeff Davis, and Perry Tuttle. Thirty-one players on the 1981 team were eventually drafted by the NFL and 22 players on the squad eventually played in the NFL. Twenty-three different players on the 1981 roster were First-Team All-ACC at one time or another in their careers.

NFL Influence

- Clemson has 18 former players in the NFL during the 2002 season. The list includes nine different former Tigers who were either first-round draft choices, Super Bowl champions, or Pro Bowl selections.
- Over the years, 19 former Clemson players have won 27 Super Bowl Championship rings. The leader is Jeff Bostic, who was a starter on three Super Bowl championship teams with the Washington Redskins. Clemson has had an alum on a Super Bowl Championship team five of the last six years.
- Trevor Pryce, an All-ACC player at Clemson in 1996, has already won two Super Bowl Championships and been a three-time Pro Bowl selection. He is the highest-paid defensive lineman in NFL history.
- Clemson has had a strong influence on the line-backer position in the NFL in recent years. Recent former Tigers who have been either Pro Bowl performers, first-round draft picks, or Super Bowl Champions include John Johnson, Levon Kirkland, Ed McDaniel, Anthony Simmons, and Wayne Simmons.

Clemson became the second ACC program to win a National Championship in football in the 1981 season after defeating Tom Osborne and Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

Poll Presence

- The 2000 season marked the 20th time Clemson has been ranked in the final top 25 of the AP poll. Clemson's highest final ranking is #1, which came in 1981. The Tigers were ranked 16th in the final AP poll of 2000. Clemson once had a streak of 46 consecutive weeks ranked in the AP poll during the 1980s.
- Clemson was ranked in the final top 20 of the AP poll six times in the 1980s. The Clemson program was fifth in the nation in winning percentage in that decade.
- Beating ranked opponents has also been a hallmark of Clemson's success. Clemson has beaten a ranked opponent 14 of last 16 years, including 2001 when the Tigers won at #9 Georgia Tech in overtime, 47-44. Clemson has 39 wins in its 50 years in the ACC over top-25 teams. Twenty-two of those wins have come against fellow ACC schools.

Prominent Former Tigers

- Dwight Clark was the MVP of the NFL in 1982. He was the recipient of "The Catch" for the San Francisco 49ers against the Dallas Cowboys in the 1981 NFC Championship game.
- Charlie Waters was a three-time Pro Bowl selection with the Dallas Cowboys. He played on two Super Bowl Championship teams and is a member of the Dallas Cowboys' prestigious Ring of Honor.
- The Perry brothers, William and Michael Dean, were starters on Clemson's 1984 defense. William played on Clemson's national championship team as a freshman, then on the Super Bowl Champion Chicago Bears of 1985. Michael Dean played in six Pro Bowls with Cleveland and Denver, more than any other former Tiger.
- Current NFL former Tigers who are also prominent in the NFL today are four-time Pro Bowl selection Chester McGlockton, three-time Pro Bowl selection Trevor Pryce, and two-time Pro Bowl selection Brian Dawkins. Dawkins made the AP All-Pro team in 2001.

Record-Breaking Players

- Clemson quarterback Woodrow Dantzler became the first player in Division I college football history to pass for at least 2,000 yards and rush for 1,000 yards in the same season when he collected 2,360 passing and 1,004 rushing in 2001. He finished his career as the ACC's all-time leader in quarterback rushing and ranks in the top 10 in league history in total offense.
- A Clemson player has led the ACC in scoring 12 times, more than any other school. The list includes two-time champion Nelson Welch, who still holds the league mark for field goals in a career with 70.
- Clemson is known for its leaders on defense. In 1984, William Perry set the ACC career record for sacks (27). Three years later, his brother, Michael Dean Perry, broke the record with his 28th.

Winning Tradition

- Since the ACC was formed in 1953, Clemson has more overall victories (311) and wins in conference games (193) than any other school. North Carolina is second in both categories with 295 and 178, respectively.
- Clemson has a winning record against each of the other charter members of the ACC since the league was founded in 1953. Clemson is 28-12-1 against Duke, 26-19-2 against Maryland, 27-15-1 against North Carolina, 22-19 against N.C. State, 34-6-1 against Virginia, and 40-6-1 against Wake Forest. Clemson also has a winning record against Georgia Tech (11-9) since the Yellow Jackets joined the league in 1983.
- Clemson has won 13 ACC championships, 12 outright and one tied, more than any other school. Florida State and Maryland are tied for second with nine. In two different eras, Clemson won three conference titles in succession. Those took place from 1965-67 and 1986-88.
- Clemson posted 15 consecutive non-losing seasons between 1977-91, an ACC record.

Dedicated, hard-working, focused, unselfish, dependable...these are just a few of the words used by coaches and teammates to describe Clemson senior wide receiver Tony Elliott. It would be an honor for anyone to have these words spoken about them; but for Elliott, considering the challenges he faced as a youth, it is particularly gratifying.

When he was just nine years old, tragedy struck Elliott's family, as the van they were traveling in on a California highway was hit by a drunk driver. Elliott's mother died in the crash. A few years later, his father was sent to prison, which left him and his younger sister to be raised by aunts and uncles living in Atlanta and Charleston.

This may seem like a tragic story, however, the way that Elliott chose to deal with what life handed him is truly inspirational. "Once everything happened," said Elliott, "it was like God showed me the way. I knew what I had to do. I had to straighten up, get good grades, go to college, and be a good example."

Elliott has since accomplished these things and more.

The experiences from his childhood forced Elliott to grow up much faster than he would have liked. He was thrown into a situation where he had to be strong. He had to be there for his sister, as both a brother and a father-figure. The tragedy brought the two closer together, says Elliott of Brandi, who is now almost 18 and a freshman at Clark Atlanta University.

"My little sister means everything to me," said Elliott. "Everything I do, I do so that I can be an example for her and make things easier for her."

Elliott said that for as long as he can remember, he always wanted to play Division I college football. It was not until his junior year at James Island High School in Charleston, SC, that he realized his desire to play at Clemson.

"There was just something about the way that Clemson played football, and the way that people talked about Clemson in the press that I liked," said Elliott. "Also, I liked the school. I wanted to pursue an engineering degree, so I was able to knock out two birds with one stone by coming to Clemson."

Despite his dream of coming to Clemson, after graduating from high school in the spring of 1997, a scholarship opportunity led Elliott to the Air Force Academy where he attended the Academy's prep school for one year before receiving his appointment to the Air Force in 1998. It was then that Elliott realized that he did not want to be at the Academy.

"To me, it was more worthwhile to go chase a dream to play at Clemson than to be at the Air Force Academy, taking someone else's spot who had dreamed their whole life of being there when I was just there to play football," said Elliott.

When Elliott discussed leaving the Air Force Academy with his coach, he was told that if he were to try to join a team somewhere else, he would never play and never be put on scholarship. This provided Elliott with all the motivation that he needed.

In January of 1999, Elliott's aunt and sister brought him to Clemson, and it was then that he started on the path that would ultimately lead him to his dream of playing for the Tigers. The first place he went when he arrived in Clemson was Death Valley, where he stood outside the gate underneath the scoreboard, looked down at the field, and imagined what it would be like to play there.

In 1999, Elliott tried out and made the team as a walk-on wide receiver. He will never forget the team meeting at the hotel the night before the first game of the season, in which each player had to stand up and explain what Clemson football meant to them.

"I started to talk but I just couldn't hold it and I started to cry," recalled Elliott. "I told my story and afterwards a lot of the guys came up to me and they showed genuine interest. To know that they cared meant a lot to me. It made me feel like part of the team."

He red-shirted in 1999, and after a year as a walk-on, his hard work and dedication paid off, as he was awarded a scholarship in 2000.

"Getting the scholarship was like a dream come true because I had proven a lot of people wrong who had doubted me. It also boosted my confidence to know that I really could play with these guys."

During the 2000 season, Elliott played in 11 games and made one tackle on special teams. In 2001, he suffered a wrist injury at Georgia Tech, but still managed to play in seven games, and record five special team tackles and one reception. He played 20 of his 30 snaps against Louisiana Tech in the Humanitarian Bowl.

This season, Elliott had a 20-yard catch and run in the season opener at #8 Georgia. The next game at Louisiana Tech, he added a six-yard reception and recovered a fumble. He made more strides in the win over Georgia Tech, with 3-85 receiving, including a 44-yard touchdown pass.

Teammate and friend Jackie Robinson respects Elliott's efforts on the field. "He is one of the most hard-working and dependable people I know. The coaches know that and they respect him for it. They use him on almost all of the special team plays because of it."

According to Robinson, Elliott is just as dedicated in the classroom as he is on the football field. "Tony and I are roommates at games, and he's always doing reading for his classes in our hotel room during the breaks between meetings and meals."

Elliott attributes his academic drive to his aunt, Blondell Kidd, who is a school principal. Throughout high school, she told Elliott that he had to carry a "B" average or she would not allow him to play sports.

"I'm the type of person that I was going to do whatever it took to play," said Elliott. "I decided that Tony Elliott came to Clemson as a walk-on, but has since earned a scholarship and will graduate with a degree in industrial engineering in December.

if she wanted 'B's', then I was going to bring in 'A's' just so there would be no question about whether or not I could play.

"My academic drive started from my love of playing the game, and then as I grew and became more educated, I started to realize just how important it is to have an education."

Education has continued to be important to Elliott, as evidenced by his impressive 3.54 cumulative grade point average in industrial engineering and selections to the ACC Honor Roll in 2000 and 2001.

Elliott will graduate from Clemson in December, 2002 with a degree in industrial engineering. He is unsure of his future plans, although he would like to pursue a master's degree in business administration. He also hopes to eventually be a businessman who wears a suit and tie to work.

Elliott's accomplishments both on the field and in the classroom have not gone unnoticed by his coaches. Rick Stockstill, the Tigers' wide receivers coach, said, "Tony has been a fun player to coach, and he's a fun person to be around. He's an extremely focused, goal-oriented, and dedicated young man, in football, his schoolwork, and his personal life. He's a great example, especially for his younger teammates. He has shown that hard work and persistence can allow a person to achieve anything."

Building a Future for Clemson

Barker earned his bachelor of architecture degree from Clemson University and his master of architecture and urban design degree from Washington University in Saint Louis, MO. Before returning to Clemson in 1986 to serve as dean of the College of Architecture, he was dean of the School of Architecture at Mississippi State University. In 1995, he became dean of the new College of Architecture, Arts, and Humanities, which was created after a comprehensive reorganization and has received national attention as a new model in education.

He is a recipient of the National Distinguished Professor Award of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture and served as president of that association. Barker was named Fellow of the American Institute of Architects. He also has been a partner in an architectural practice.

He has been awarded honorary doctoral degrees from S.C. State University and Mars Hill College, and has served on the Truman Scholars selection committee. He currently serves on the Commission of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the region's accrediting agency.

At Clemson, Barker co-founded the South Carolina Design Arts Partnership to support community design outreach projects, initiated the Charleston Architecture Center, established the university's "Arts in April" program, and developed a Mayors' Institute to help city leaders learn how to manage issues related to growth and development.

Despite his responsibilities as president, Barker remains committed to the classroom. Each spring, he is part of a team that teaches an undergraduate course exploring "a sense of place" in architecture, literature, and history.

Success in athletics is important to Barker. The former high jumper at Clemson is omnipresent at Tiger athletic events and follows all of the school's programs closely. He recently directly chaired the three-person committee that hired new athletic director Terry Don Phillips.

Barker's Goals by 2010

Academics, Research, and Service

1. Excel in teaching, at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.
2. Increase research and sponsored programs to exceed $100 million a year in research support.
3. Set the standard in public service for land-grant universities by engaging the whole campus in service and outreach, including a focus on strategic emphasis areas.
4. Foster Clemson's academic reputation through strong academic programs, mission-oriented research and academic centers of excellence, relevant public service, and highly regarded faculty and staff.
5. Seek and cultivate areas where teaching, research, and service overlap.

Campus Life

1. Strengthen our sense of community and increase our diversity.
2. Recognize & appreciate Clemson's distinctiveness.
3. Create greater awareness of international programs and increase activity in this area.
4. Increase our focus on collaboration.
5. Maintain an environment that is healthy, safe, and attractive.

Student Performance

1. Attract more students who are ranked in the top 10 percent of their high school classes and who perform exceptionally well on the SAT/ACT.
2. Promote high graduation rates by increasing freshman retention, meeting expectations of high achievers, and providing support systems for all students.
3. Promote excellence in advising.
4. Increase the annual number of doctoral graduates to the level of a top-20 public research university.
5. Improve the national competitiveness of graduate student admissions and financial aid.

Educational Resources

1. Campaign goal surpassed by 40 percent.
2. Rededicate our energy and resources to improving the library.
3. Increase faculty compensation to a level competitive with top-20 public universities.
4. Increase academic expenditures per student to a level competitive with top-20 public universities.
5. Manage enrollment to ensure the highest quality classroom experiences.

Clemson's National Reputation

1. Promote high integrity and professional demeanor among all members of the University community.
2. Establish a Phi Beta Kappa chapter.
3. Have at least two Clemson students win Rhodes Scholarships.
4. Send student ensembles to perform at Carnegie Hall.
5. Have at least two Clemson faculty win recognition by national academies.
6. Publicize both national and international accomplishments of faculty, staff, and students.
7. While maintaining full compliance, achieve notable recognition with another national football championship, two championships in Olympic sports, and two Final Four appearances in basketball.

Clemson University's 14th President, James F. Barker, is first and foremost an architect. So it comes as no surprise that he came to the office with a clear blueprint of Clemson's future in mind - a future built around such ideas as collaboration, community, and quality.

A 1970 Clemson graduate, the former dean of the university's College of Architecture, Arts, and Humanities was named president in October 1999, having outlined for the Board of Trustees a vision of making Clemson one of the top-20 public universities in the country. From that vision came the development of a set of 10-year goals adopted in 2001 - goals that are already showing results, including:

- a 70 percent increase in research support over two years, earning Clemson a ranking as one of the nation's top 100 research universities;
- a capital campaign that raised $295 million;
- the enrollment of Clemson's brightest class ever, with an average SAT approaching 1,200;
- recognition in 2000 as Time Magazine's Public College-of-the-Year for its innovative communication across the curriculum program.

Barker attended the National Football Foundation and College Football Hall of Fame Banquet in New York in 2001. Above he poses with Tiger honorees Terry Kinard and Kyle Young.

The Barkers, Jim and Marcia, have two sons, 18-year-old Britt, a senior at Daniel High School in Clemson, and Jacob, 28, who works for an advertising agency in Greenville, SC. Jacob received his undergraduate degree from North Carolina, where he was also a member of the baseball team. He earned his master's degree from Clemson in 2002 and worked in the sports information office while he was pursuing that degree.

Terry Don Phillips is the newest addition to the Clemson athletic family, but he is no stranger to the world of college athletics. The long-time administrator and teacher is charged with the duty of leading Clemson into the new millennium. He will undoubtedly call on his vast experience in all areas of athletic administration to address the challenges set forth in the University's vision statement to become a top-20 public university. He began his tenure as Clemson's 10th athletic director on July 1, 2002.

The three-person committee charged with finding a replacement for retiring 17-year Athletic Director Bobby Robinson found a perfect match for Clemson University in Phillips. His resume is one of the most impressive, well-rounded personal documents in college athletics.

Academically, Phillips has an undergraduate degree from Arkansas (1970), a master's degree from Virginia Tech (1974), a doctorate from Virginia Tech (1978), and a law degree from the Arkansas School of Law (1996). He is a member of the Arkansas Bar and the American Bar Association. Phillips has also served in an adjunct faculty role at his previous stops and plans to continue to teach a course in legal studies at Clemson.

From an experience standpoint, Phillips has worked in just about all phases of college athletics. He served as an assistant football coach at Virginia Tech, supervised Spring sports and student-athlete enrichment at Florida, handled athletic fundraising and facility enhancement at Missouri and Arkansas, and has 15 years experience as an athletic director, including 13 at the Division I level.

When it comes to success on the field and in the classroom, Phillips' programs have been among the best in the nation. The achievements of the Oklahoma State program during his tenure (1994-02) included a pair of national championships in men's golf, a men's basketball Final Four, two trips to the College World Series, 13 Big 12 Championships, and 11 individual national champions. Academically, it had 53 academic All-Americans from 1995-02.

Phillips knows the importance of rivalries and Oklahoma State notched four football wins over arch-rival Oklahoma in his tenure in Stillwater, including a 16-13 victory in 2001 against the defending national champion and #4 Sooners. Before his arrival in 1995, the Cowboys had just three wins over Oklahoma in the previous 48 years. The Cowboys also won the first-ever Bedlam Championship in 2001, the all-sports competition between the two.

From a facilities enhancement standpoint, Phillips has significant experience, an important aspect to his new job at Clemson, where facilities improvements and corresponding fund-raising challenges command his attention immediately.

In Stillwater, the program compiled a long list of successful facilities projects, including the completion of nearly $65 million in new construction.

Gallagher-Iba Arena, the Cowboys' basketball arena, was expanded from 6,000 to 13,611 seats, and 14 suites were added. It was named the best college venue in the nation by CBS Sportsline. An equestrian center, softball stadium, women's soccer complex, golf training facility, and indoor baseball/softball facility were also a part of a broad range of facility improvements.

Phillips also supervised the planning of a $50 million renovation to Oklahoma State's football stadium that will add 2,300 club seats, 10 suites, and rebuilt concession, restrooms, press, and concourse areas. Additionally, Phillips and his staff raised approximately $20 million for capital projects, the most in the school's history, a $9 million budget growth to nearly $23 million, and a $1 million deficit reduction while expanding programs to conform with Title IX.

The Longview, TX native also knows how to attract and lead members of his community. He initiated the Orange Peel Rally, a student-produced spirit rally before the first Oklahoma State home football game that averaged approximately 20,000 in attendance. His blueprint for the event was Clemson's Tigerama, which had impressed him in 1978 when he made his first trip to Clemson with the Virginia Tech football team. The athletic program also started the Best of America Rally that introduced grade-school age youngsters to Oklahoma State University.

Phillips is the Chair of the NCAA Division I Infractions Appeals Committee, which serves the appellate role for all University and individual appeals arising from the Committee on Infractions. He also serves on the Olympic Sports Liaison Committee. He served the Big 12 Conference on the Board of Athletic Directors, Bowl Subcommittee, and Post-Graduate Scholarship and Television Committees.

Before leading Oklahoma State, Phillips served as senior associate athletic director at Arkansas from 1988-94. He ran the daily operations and had oversight of facility projects for the men's programs, and was president of the Razorback Foundation.

Phillips was also athletic director of the University of Southwestern Louisiana from 1983-88 and Liberty College from 1980-81. He was an assistant athletic director at Missouri from 1981-83 where he supervised athletic fund-raising. George Bennett, current Clemson Executive Director of IPTAY and a leader in that field, met with Phillips when he first accepted that position. Phillips began his administrative career in 1978 as an assistant athletic director at Florida, where he worked with Spring sports and student-athlete enrichment.

Phillips also has considerable experience in coaching. He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Arkansas from 1970-71. He then moved on to Virginia Tech as an assistant coach from 1971-78 before joining the ranks of athletic administration. During his coaching career there, he served with former Clemson Head Coaches Charley Pell and Danny Ford, and worked directly under former Tiger defensive coordinator Tom Harper.

Winning has been in Phillips's resume since his playing days. At Arkansas, Phillips lettered on Frank Broyles teams of 1966, 1968, and 1969. The Razorbacks were a combined 27-5 in those three seasons and played in two Sugar Bowl games. Phillips played for the Razorbacks in the famous 1969 Arkansas-Texas game that decided the National Championship. One of the assistant coaches on the 1968 and 1969 Arkansas teams was former Clemson Head Coach Hootie Ingram.

Phillips has two children, John Dennis (25) and Sarah Jane (21). He has three step-children, Meagan (13), Marshall (12), and Madison (10). He is married to Tricia Phillips.

Terry Don Phillips, his wife Tricia and children Meagan, Marshall and Madison are in their first football season at Clemson.

4th Year Head Coach

When Clemson was selected for the 2001 Crucial.com Humanitarian Bowl, it meant that the Tigers would be making their third straight bowl appearance - the third under Head Coach Tommy Bowden. With that selection, he became the first head coach to take Clemson to a bowl game in each of his first three seasons. That is something that prominent predecessors Jess Neely, Frank Howard, Charley Pell, Danny Ford, and Ken Hatfield failed to do. Under Bowden's direction, Clemson appeared in the Peach Bowl in 1999 and in the Gator Bowl in 2000 prior to its Humanitarian Bowl appearance.

Clemson made the most of that 2001 bowl appearance, defeating Louisiana Tech, 49-24 on New Year's Eve, Clemson's first bowl win since 1993. Clemson set school bowl records for points scored, touchdowns, and total offense in a bowl game in the victory. The Tigers threw five touchdown passes, a record for any Clemson game. The Clemson defense also limited the effectiveness of Louisiana Tech's nationally ranked offense, as the defense held Tech to but 10 points and 270 yards before reserves were summoned to the contest on both sides.

It was a record-breaking performance for the Tigers in Boise, ID, something that surprised no one who has followed the Tigers the last three seasons. In that short period of time, Clemson has set over 125 school records on an individual and team basis. Three of the top five total-offense seasons in school history have been recorded under Bowden, including the 2001 season when Clemson averaged over 30 points and 432 yards of total offense.

The 2001 season demonstrated Bowden's ability to win in the long run, as he had the second-youngest two-deep in the ACC. Thirty-four of his top 44 players were underclassmen. Only Duke had a younger group of top 44 players. Fourteen different freshmen saw action in 2001, including 10 who played in at least 10 games. Ten Clemson freshman records have been set under Bowden in his short tenure. In 2001, freshmen receivers caught 106 passes, while freshmen defensive players combined for 173 tackles and 15 tackles for loss.

Bowden has a record of 22-14 entering the 2002 season as Clemson's head coach. He has recorded that ledger against a difficult schedule. His first year, Clemson's schedule was ranked in the top 10 in the nation. In 2001, his team defeated five teams that finished the season with a winning record, tied for the third-highest single-season figure in school history. One of the wins was a 47-44 overtime triumph at #9 Georgia Tech. It was Clemson's highest-ranked road win in 20 years.

He has also gained that record with a group of overachieving players. Of the 25 teams who have been to a bowl game each of the last three years, only East Carolina (two) has had fewer players drafted than Clemson (three) over that period. Two of the years Clemson has advanced to a bowl game under Bowden, Clemson did not have any players drafted (1999 and 2001).

When Bowden came to Clemson in 1998, he inherited a team with a 3-8 record. By late October of 2000, just 14 months after his first game, Clemson was ranked third in the USA Today poll after an 8-0 start. That ranking was the highest for the program in 16 years. The final #14 ranking in that same poll was the highest final listing for the program since the 1990 season.

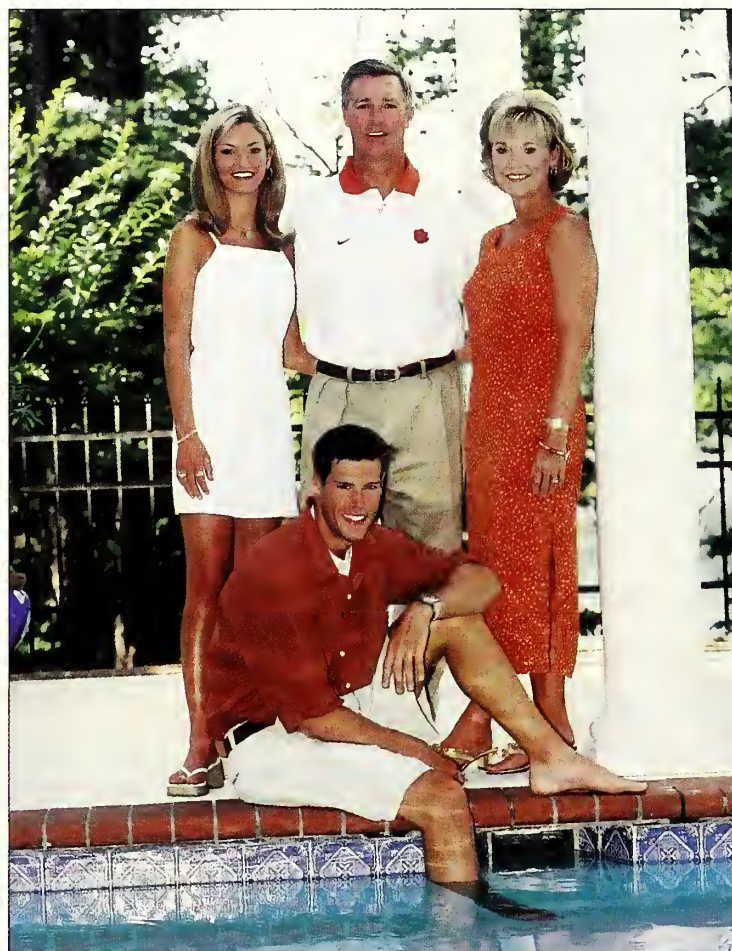

Making a swift improvement is nothing new for Bowden. In 1997, he took over a 4-7 Tulane program and brought the Green Wave to a 7-4 mark in his first year. In 1998, the improvement continued with an 11-0 regular season and #7 national ranking. In 1999, Bowden elevated the Tigers from 3-8 to a bowl game and a 6-6 final record. The 2000 Tigers concluded the season with a 9-3 record, its highest win total since 1993.

As you can see, considerable improvement is a common phrase for Tommy Bowden coached teams. In each of his first four years he has coached at the Division I level, his team showed at least a three-win improvement over the previous year, believed to be a first in Division I college football history. Bowden is just the third coach in Clemson history to bring the Tigers to a three-win improvement in consecutive years and was one of just two Division I coaches (John Robinson of UNLV) to do it over the 1999 and 2000 seasons.

Bowden's second Clemson team was one of the most decorated in history. Six different Tigers were finalists or semi-finalist for national position awards, including linebacker Keith Adams, who was one of the final three finalists for the Butkus Award.

Kyle Young and Chad Carson were both named first-team Academic All-Americans, making Clemson the only Division I-A school in the nation to have a pair of first-team selections. For the second straight year, the football team had its highest team GPA on record and a record number of ACC Academic honor-roll recipients. Eighteen of the 22 seniors on the 2001 team have already earned their degrees and two more will join them this year. The top-five semester GPAs on record have taken place under his seven-semester watch. Carson brought pride to the entire University last winter when he reached the final stage of the Rhodes Scholarship selection process.

The Bowden family: Lauren, Tommy, Linda, and Ryan.

Head Coach Tommy Bowden

When Bowden came to Clemson, he had one simple goal - improvement. Bowden warned Clemson supporters that the Tigers were unlikely to be bowl participants in 1999, but his main focus was to improve. Bowden's goal of improvement was reached and he was happy to be wrong about his preseason prediction, as the Tigers were invited to the 1999 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl.

In 1999, Bowden accomplished a personal milestone that no Clemson coach had attained since 1981, the year the Tigers won the National Championship. He became the first Clemson coach since Danny Ford to be named ACC Coach-of-the-Year.

Bowden led the Tigers to a 6-6 record and 5-3 mark in the ACC against the nation's third-toughest regular-season schedule according to Jeff Sagarin. The Tigers finished tied for second with Georgia Tech and Virginia in the final conference standings, a six-place improvement over 1998, the greatest one-season jump in ACC history in league play.

The improvements in the ACC standings were thanks in large part to an innovative offensive attack. The Clemson offense ended the season averaging 402.6 yards per game, nearly a 100-yard per game improvement over 1998. The Tigers scored 26.8 points per game in 1999 compared to 19.8 in 1998. Clemson's 42 touchdowns in 1999 ranked fifth best in school history. Clemson has exceeded that touchdown total each of the last two years.

Under Bowden, Clemson continued its strong defensive tradition. With 47 sacks, Clemson was first in the ACC in that category for the second straight season, and the final total established a school record. Three players (Keith Adams - 15.5, Chad Carson - 12.0, Robert Carswell - 10.8) all had nearly 11 tackles per game in 1999 to rank among the top-four tacklers in the league.

Adams, a sophomore that season, finished with 186 tackles, highest in the nation, and broke the Clemson single-season tackle record held by Anthony Simmons. They all contributed to the 17th best pass efficiency defense in the nation, a unit that had 19 interceptions, ninth highest in the country.

Four of Clemson's losses in 1999 came against teams ranked in the top 15 of the final AP poll. Bowden Bowl I, the first ever meeting between father and son head coaches in college football history, took place on October 23, 1999. Bowden faced his father Bobby's top-ranked Florida State team in Death Valley in front of a national television audience. The Tigers lost a tough battle to the eventual National Champions, 17-14, the closest margin of victory for the Seminoles and the fewest points they recorded all season by two touchdowns.

Making strong improvement in his first year with a program was nothing new for Bowden. In the two seasons he was the head coach at Tulane, Bowden took a team that had been 4-18 in the two years previous to his arrival, and emotionally and numerically reversed the team's fortunes with an 18-4 record, posted an 11-1 conference mark, and finished the 1998 season ranked seventh in the nation by both polls. Tulane and Tennessee were the only undefeated teams in college football in 1998.

His Tulane team had a 22-game average of 39.7 points, 5.1 touchdowns, 463 yards of total offense, 270.5 yards passing, and 192.6 yards rushing. The Green Wave averaged 6.34 yards per play, and converted on third down 47 percent of the time.

Some say the most telling statistic in terms of wins and losses, and the most telling statistic when it comes to coaching ability is turnover margin. The Green Wave ranked fifth in the nation in turnover margin each of his seasons at Tulane.

It didn't take Bowden long to put Tulane back on the college football landscape. In his first year, Tulane was picked last in the preseason polls of Conference USA. But he led the New Orleans based school to a 7-4 record, a second-place conference standing with just one league loss, and set 33 school records in the process, including 26 on offense.

Tulane's accomplishments on offense were noteworthy in 1997, but its offensive charts reached uncharted areas in 1998. Tulane stood as the nation's only school to average over 300 yards per game passing and 200 yards per game rushing. Tulane ranked fourth nationally in total offense (507.1 per game) and second in scoring (45.4 per game).

The Green Wave scored 40 or more points in eight contests in 1998, including each of the last seven games. In one game, the Green Wave scored 72 points and rolled up 704 yards of total offense. They converted 52 percent of their third-down opportunities for the season and had just 11 turnovers in over 800 plays. The 1998 season saw Tulane post a perfect 11-0 regular season under Bowden, its first perfect regular season since 1931. The Green Wave won Conference USA, its first league title since Tulane won the SEC in 1949. Bowden was named Conference USA Coach-of-the-Year.

Bowden's team ranked seventh in the final AP poll and was a mainstay in the polls from the third week of the season on. Tulane had not been ranked at any time since 1979, and had not been ranked in a final poll since 1973. After Bowden accepted the job at Clemson, Tulane defeated Brigham Young in the Liberty Bowl, 41-27.

A look to the list of coaches who had undefeated seasons in the 1990s shows two other men named Bowden. His father, Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden, had a perfect regular season in 1996 and 1999, while his brother, Terry, posted a perfect regular season in 1993. The Bowdens are the first family of college coaching, and this "Wonder Years" environment had a lot to do with Tommy Bowden's decision to enter the coaching world.

The fatherly influence of a college coach who reached 300 career wins against his son in 1999, also had an influence on other members of the family. Terry has been a head coach at Samford and Auburn, posting a 47-17-1 record at the latter. Terry serves as an in-studio commentator for ABC's college football package. Jeff Bowden is in his eighth year as wide receivers coach at Florida State, his second as offensive coordinator.

Tommy Bowden began his college football experience as a walk-on wide receiver at West Virginia. He played for his father between 1973-75 and then for Frank Signetti during the 1976 season.

As a junior, he caught 15 passes for 189 yards and one score. Bowden remained at West Virginia for the 1977 season and began his coaching career, serving as a graduate assistant on Signetti's staff. His interest in coaching only became more intense after that first year as a graduate assistant. His father then hired him as a secondary coach at Florida State for the 1978 season.

That experience confirmed to Bowden that he was in a profession that would be his life's work. The Seminoles posted a 19-4 mark in his two seasons at Florida State.

In 1980, Bowden joined the staff at East Carolina, where he coached for the Spring practice session of 1980. That spring, he moved to Auburn and served as the Tigers running backs coach for the 1980 season. Among the players he coached was James Brooks, who went on to a 13-year NFL career and is still second in Auburn history in rushing.

In 1981, Bowden returned to Tallahassee as the tight ends coach. In two more years at Florida State, the Seminoles posted a 15-8 mark. The 1982 team ranked 13th in the final poll, claimed a 9-3 record, and won a Gator Bowl championship.

In 1983, Bowden accepted his first job as a coordinator. He served under Steve Sloan at Duke as the Blue Devils' quarterbacks coach and offensive coordinator. It was as the Duke offensive coordinator that Bowden made his first trip to Death Valley as a coach. Among the players Bowden tutored was Anthony Dilweg, who went on to the NFL.

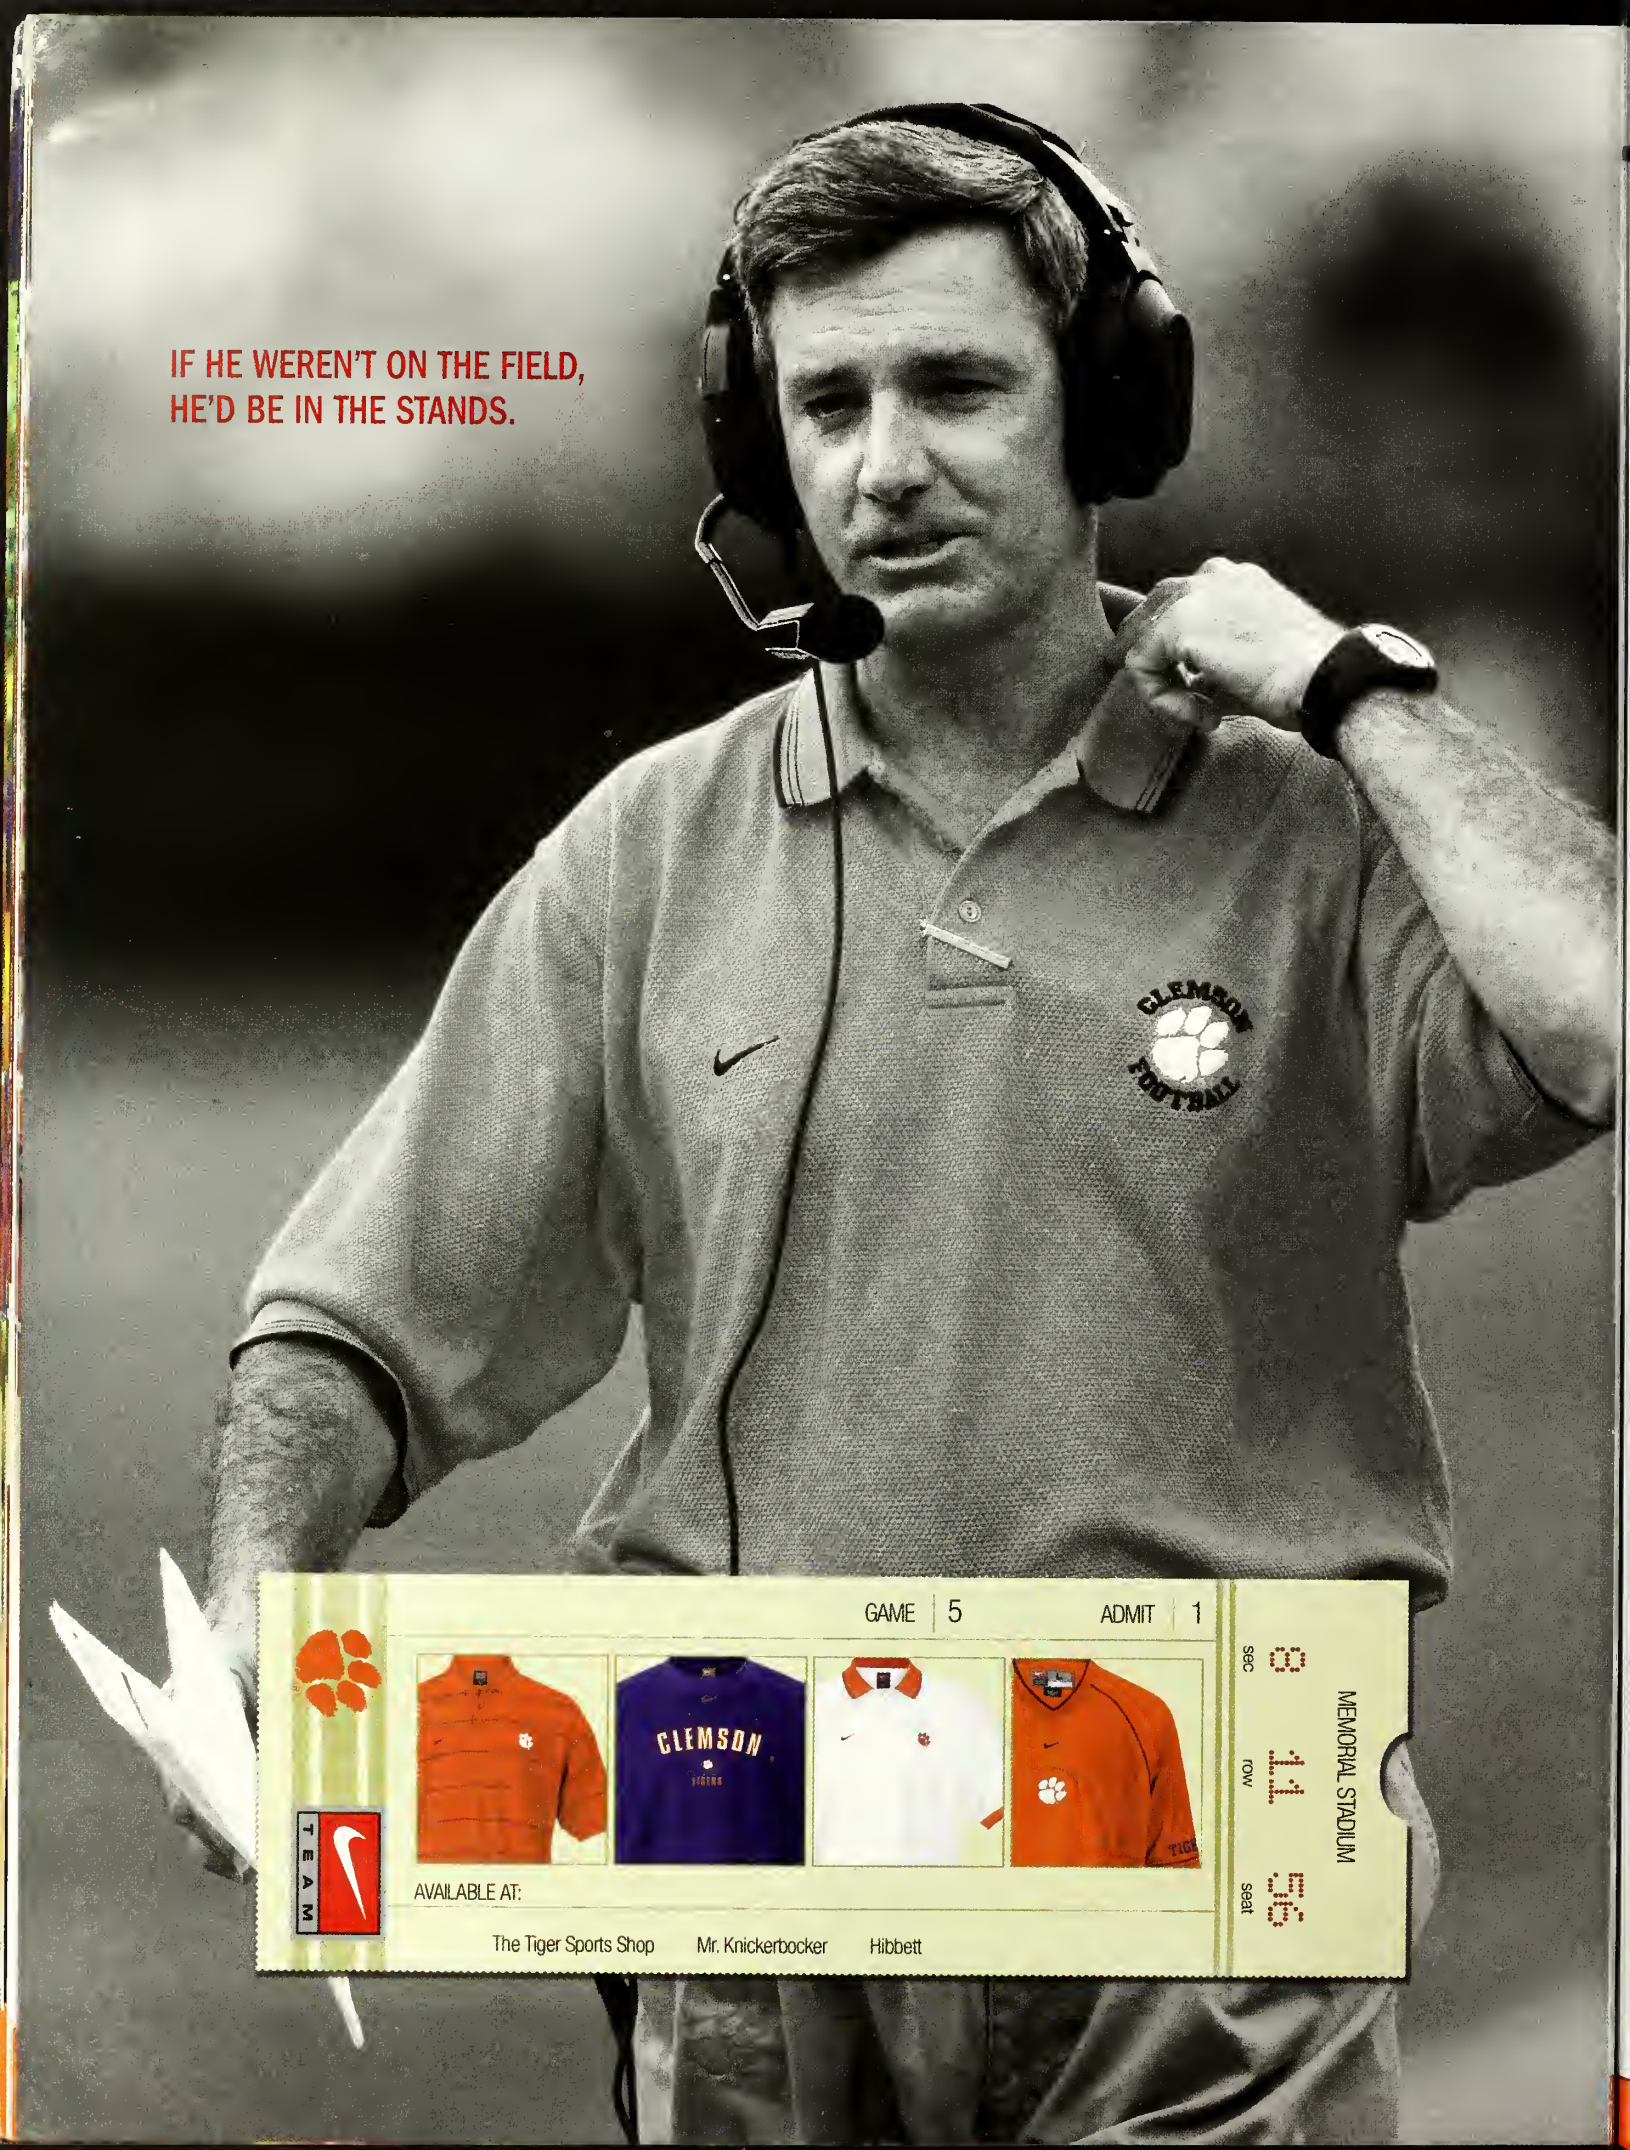

After four years at Duke, Bowden became the wide receivers coach at Alabama under Bill Curry. It was at Alabama that Bowden refined his offensive coaching prowess under noted offensive mind Homer Smith, then the Tide offensive coordinator.

In 1990, Bowden returned to a coordinator role, serving Kentucky as offensive coordinator and wide receivers coach. That year, he helped the Wildcats to their first upper division SEC finish since 1984.

In 1991, Bowden joined Pat Dye at Auburn. He would remain with Auburn for six years, his longest stint as a college assistant coach. During his tenure, Auburn was a combined 46-20-2, including a perfect 11-0 season in 1993. Auburn had four Associated Press top-25 seasons, including a #4 final ranking in 1993 and a #9 final rating in 1994. The Tigers were 20-1-1 in 1993-94 combined. Bowden worked under his brother, Terry, for his last four years at Auburn and the Tigers had a 36-9-1 record with both Bowdens on the staff.

Born on July 10, 1954, in Birmingham, AL, Bowden is married to the former Linda Joan White, who he first met when the two were in school together at Morgantown (WV) High. The couple has two children, Ryan (20), a junior at Clemson, and Lauren (17) a senior at nearby Daniel High.

Clemson Memorial Stadium has been held in high esteem for many years. Whether it be players from the 1940s and 1950s, opposing players from the 1970s and 1980s, or even professional players in the 1990s, the ambiance of this special setting is what college football is all about.

The storied edifice added to its legend when the first meeting of father and son head coaches (Bowden Bowl I) took place before a sellout crowd of more than 86,000 fans in 1999. Clemson has ranked in the top 20 in the nation in average attendance 19 consecutive seasons.

In the 70s, 80s, and 90s, various publications named top-10 stadiums in college football and Memorial Stadium, affectionately known as "Death Valley," has been a common denominator on those lists.

The facility's mystique is derived from its many traditions, which date to its opening in 1942, the legendary games and players, and Clemson's corresponding rate of success. Clemson has won 211 games in the previous 60 years there (211-84-7) and has won over 71 percent of the contests. Thirty-six times since 1983, crowds have exceeded 80,000.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before head coach Jess Neely left for Rice University after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need".

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus.

The place would take some clearing-there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work, clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally on September 19, 1942, Memorial Stadium opened with Clemson thrashing Presbyterian, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the stadium, including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete poured.

Howard said that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he said. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through."

"I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week's pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard said that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 pm and we played at 2:00 pm." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone, "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of as crowds swelled - the first in 1978 and the second in '83. This increased capacity to over 80,000, which makes it one of the largest on-campus stadiums.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

In 1974, the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

"When you get to the bottom of the hill, it's like you're in a hole and all around you are nothing but Clemson fans. Its like the crowd is one big voice. You feel like little kings."

Former Clemson running back Rodney Blunt

"Running down the hill is still talked about everywhere I go. Players who played against Clemson when I was in college remember us running the hill and thinking we would gain some type of spirit. The adrenalin rush was unbelievable for a Clemson player and quite a shock for the opponent."

Former Clemson All-American Jerry Butler

"There is no place louder or more picturesque than Death Valley. There, where Clemson folks see magic in a hill and a rock, orange gets more respect than anywhere this side of Gainesville, Florida."

Terence Moore, Atlanta Constitution

"The rock has strange powers. When you rub it, and run down the hill, the adrenaline flows. Its the most emotional experience I've ever had."

Six-time All-Pro and former Clemson All-American Michael Dean Perry

"Florida was loud in the swamp. But, the loudest, not only the stadium, but the loudest place I have ever been around in my life was definitely Death Valley. I was yelling at the top of my lungs in that first series and I couldn't even hear what I was saying. My voice was gone after the second series, so we had to signal everything. That place was unreal in how loud it was. I don't think I will ever be in a louder place than Clemson."

Florida State Quarterback Chris Rix, 2001

"Clemson's record at home is not a coincidence. Running down the hill is a part of that record. You get so inspired, and so much of college football is about emotion. You get out of that bus and you hear the roar of the crowd and it gives you chills up and down your spine."

Former Clemson All-America kicker David Treadwell

"I came here knowing it would be loud and that Clemson would hit me hard, but to me, the noise was the biggest factor. I know I didn't concentrate as well because of it."

Herschel Walker after Clemson's 13-3 victory in 1981, his only regular season loss at Georgia.

"Death Valley really lives up to its image. I was impressed with this stadium. When you put 80,000 people in there, it really feels like they are on top of you. I would hate to be Georgia Tech or whoever else comes in here."

San Francisco 49ers Quarterback Steve Young

What has been described as, "the most exciting 25 seconds in college football from a color and pageantry standpoint," actually started out as a matter-of-fact entrance, mainly because of necessity.

The first 20,000 seats in Clemson Memorial Stadium were built and ready for use before the 1942 season. Less than a year before Pearl Harbor was bombed and the United States was at war.

The shortest entry into the stadium was a short walk down Williamson Road from Fike Fieldhouse's dressing rooms to a gate at the top of the Hill, which is located behind the east endzone. There were no dressing facilities in the west end zone - there was only a big clock where the hands turned and a scoreboard, which was operated by hand.

The team would dress at Fike, walk down Williamson Road, come in the gate underneath where the big scoreboard now stands and jog down the hill for its warm-up exercises. There was no fanfare, no cannon shot fired, no tiger paw flag, no Tiger Rag played - just the team making its entrance and lining up to do the side straddle hop.

That's pretty much the way things went for the next 25 years.

Either in 1964 or 1965, S. C. Jones, a member of the Clemson class of 1919, made a trip to California. He stopped at a spot in Death Valley, CA, and picked up this white flint rock. He presented it to Coach Frank Howard as being from Death Valley, CA, to Death Valley, South Carolina.

The rock laid on the floor in Howard's office in Fike for a year or more. One day Howard was cleaning up his office and he told Gene Willimon, who was the executive secretary of IPTAY, to, "take this rock and throw it over the fence, or out in the ditch - do something with it, but get it out of my office."

Willimon didn't think that was the way a rock should be treated. After all, it had been brought 3000 miles by a very sincere Tiger fan.

By the mid-sixties, Memorial Stadium was pretty well living up to its moniker, Death Valley, because of the number of victories that had been recorded there. Actually, the name was first used by the late Lonnie McMillian, head coach at Presbyterian College in Clinton in the 1940s.

McMillian and the other Blue Hose coaches before him used to open the season each year by coming to Clemson. Seldom scoring (24 shut-outs in 39 games) and with only three wins and four ties to show for it, his teams were getting killed by the Tigers regularly. In 1948 McMillian made the comment to the press that he was taking his team to play Clemson in Death Valley.

An occasional reference to Memorial stadium by that name could be heard for the next three or four years, but when Howard started calling it 'Death Valley' in the 1950's, the name took off like wildfire. The Tigers celebrated the 50th season in the 'valley' in 1991.

But getting back to Howard's rock.

The rock was mounted on a pedestal at the top of the hill. It was unveiled September 24, 1966, on a day when Clemson played Virginia. The Tigers were down 18 points with 17 minutes to play and came back to win (40-35) on a 65-yard pass play from Jimmy Addison to Jacky Jackson in the fourth period. That was quite a spectacular debut for that rock.

The team members started rubbing the rock prior to running down the hill September 23, 1967, a day when Clemson defeated Wake Forest, 23-6. Prior to running down the hill that day, Howard told his players, "If you're going to give me 110 percent, you can rub that rock. If you're not, keep your filthy hands off it." Howard told of the incident the next day on his Sunday television show and the story became legend.

When Hootie Ingram succeeded Howard as head coach prior to the 1970 season, Ingram decided that the team would make its final entrance on the field out of the dressing room in the west end zone. In all home games in 1970 and 1971 and the first four of 1972 when the Tigers did not run down the hill, their record was 6-9. The team decided it wanted to come down the hill once prior to the South Carolina game in 1972. The result, in a cold, freezing rain, was a 7-6 victory when Jimmy Williamson knocked down a two-point conversion attempt which preserved the win.

The Tigers have made the entrance for every home game since 1942, except for the seasons mentioned above - 286 times heading into the 2002 season.

After Clemson's final warm-up, the team goes back into its dressing room under the west end zone stands for final game instructions. About 10 minutes before kickoff the team boards two buses, rides around behind the north stands to the east end zone and debarks to the top of the hill behind Howard's Rock.

At the appointed time, the cannon booms and led by a high-flying tiger paw flag, the band forms two lines for the team to run between and strikes up 'Tiger Rag'. The frenzy starts in all sincerity, and usually lasts two and a half to three hours.

It is a tradition that has inspired Clemson players for many years.

"When Clemson players rub that rock and run down the hill, it's the most exciting 25 seconds in college football."

Driving the Carolinas

by Philip Sikes

Note: Each program this year, we will review the greatest games in Clemson history by position. Today we recall the greatest game in history by a Clemson linebacker.

The game of college football is one of size and speed. Today's players are bigger, stronger, and faster than ever. College coaches are continuously searching for these massive talents to help elevate a school's football program. But every once in a while, an athlete of relatively small stature emerges from nowhere and finds success. One should look no further than Marlon "Bubba" Brown as a prime example.

Brown, a linebacker who barely stood six-feet tall, overcame his stature as well as the odds to excel for the Clemson Tigers. His heart and passion for the game was immeasurable, and it was never more evident than in the 1978 Gator Bowl against Ohio State. His performance on that stage silenced any critics. Today we make the claim that his performance against Woody Hayes' Ohio State Buckeyes was the best ever by a Clemson linebacker.

That is certainly saying something when you look at the linebackers who have played at Clemson since Brown hung up his uniform. No less than 10 Clemson linebackers have played in the NFL since he graduated, including Pro Bowl performers Levon Kirkland and Ed McDaniels, and Super Bowl Champion Wayne Simmons.

Despite a lack of height, Brown was stocky and packed a lot of punch with each bone-jarring hit. Ohio State found that out the hard way. He accumulated 22 tackles that night in Jacksonville, FL, including two for loss, to lead the Tiger defense. He persistently hunted down Buckeye ball carriers on his way to establishing the Clemson bowl-game record for tackles that still stands today.

Brown was no stranger when it came to stepping up his play for big games. Earlier that season, he posted 18 tackles in a 33-10 win over N.C. State and Heisman candidate Ted Brown. The 6-0, 210-pound linebacker helped the Tigers limit the Wolfpack's star tailback to just 70 yards on 21 carries. Sports Illustrated cited Brown's effort and honored him as the National Defensive Player-of-the-Week for his work. Clemson definitely won the "Battle of the Browns" that day.

When it came time to compete with 20th-ranked Ohio State, Brown was up to the task again. In what turned out to be an emotionally-charged atmosphere, Brown contained his aggression and turned in one of Clemson's most brilliant performances ever.

It became apparent from the outset that Brown was determined and relentless. He totaled five tackles on the Buckeyes' opening drive. However, Ohio State was able to hit on some key passes and marched down the field to the Tigers' one-yard line. But Brown made his biggest play of the game on a critical fourth-and-goal from the one. He burst through the line and wrapped up Ricardo Volley for a loss. Although it was early, his tackle sent a message and set the tone for the remainder of the contest.

Brown was the catalyst on the 1978 defense that created an astonishing 38 turnovers and finished with only one loss following the 17-15 Gator Bowl victory over Ohio State. However, Brown's incredible performance often gets overlooked due to a couple of occurrences and stories that played out during the game.

For starters, it was the first game of Danny Ford's 11-year coaching tenure at Clemson. Head Coach Charley Pell had resigned 19 days prior to the Gator Bowl to become the head coach at Florida. Ford's teams quickly became known for defense, and one of his favorite players was Brown.

"What he lacks in size he makes up for it in heart," Ford once said of his linebacker. "Bubba gets after it all the time. His desire is infectious and motivates the other players. In situations when we need someone to play better than he is capable of playing, he is the man we look to."

Another reason Brown's accomplishment gets overlooked is because the Gator Bowl was the last game coached by Ohio State's legendary, yet highly volatile Head Coach Woody Hayes. Following the game-clinching interception by Charlie Bauman, Hayes' fiery demeanor cost him his job, as he punched the Tigers' middle guard when he ran out of bounds.

Regardless of the stories revolving around the game, the play of Brown stood out to the 72,011 spectators on hand. Coming into the game, Brown and his fellow defenders understood the daunting task that lay ahead of them. The Buckeyes fea-

Bubba Brown is still Clemson's career tackle leader, 23 years and many great linebackers after his career ended. His 22 tackles against Ohio State stands out.

Single-Game Tackle Bests

As you can see, Brown's tackle total against Ohio State is still a record for a bowl game and tied for the fourth-best single-game mark in Clemson history. It is also tied for third best in a Clemson victory and was a record in any game at the time it was contested.

tured a balanced attack led by multi-purpose quarterback Art Schlichter.

Clemson chose to focus on shutting down Ohio State's running game. The Tigers held the Buckeyes to just 150 yards on the ground, well below its season average. Brown was the key player in that area. He made a name for himself as a vicious run-stopper and covered the entire field from sideline to sideline. His motor never stopped running, particularly in this game.

Brown increased his season tackle total to 170 following the game, which was a single-season record at the time. He racked up 515 tackles during his career, a record that still stands today. He was an All-ACC selection during both his junior and senior seasons at Clemson.

His ascension to prominence was not easy. He lacked height and was not heavily recruited as a result of that. The Loudon, TN native also found himself playing in the shadows of All-ACC linebacker Randy Scott. He turned heads quickly and blossomed into an outstanding college football player. One person not surprised by his success was Pell, who coached Brown during his first two years at Clemson.

"Bubba worked as hard as anyone day in and day out," Pell said in an interview after the season. "Bubba was an extremely hard worker on and off the field. He understood how to make up for his lack of size with desire and intensity. That extra perseverance was what made him such a good football player."

That intensity and desire certainly showed up against Ohio State. Whenever Schlichter tried to escape the pocket or break out on a sweep, Brown was there. He chased the Buckeye quarterback from one end of the field to the other, disrupting several drives with each subsequent tackle.

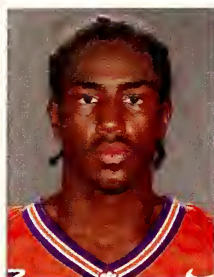

Brown was honored as the Defensive Player-of-the-Game against the Buckeyes for his efforts. He earned more accolades after his playing career had ended. He was named to Clemson's All-Centennial Team in 1996, one of only three linebackers named to the team. Three years ago, Brown was inducted into Clemson's Hall of Fame, putting a well-deserved exclamation point on his football days at Clemson.

In 2002, the Tiger track and field program enjoyed the most successful year in the history of the program. Clemson won its 20th ACC title under 15th-year Head Coach Bob Pollock at the ACC Indoor Championships, then posted a seventh-place finish at the NCAA Indoor Championships and a program-best fourth-place finish at the NCAA Outdoor Championships. The Tigers return three members of the NCAA runnerup 4x100m relay team, four NCAA qualifiers, four ACC champions, and 13 All-ACC selections. This season, the Tiger cross country and track and field teams will be a blend of success, experience, talent, and youth.

The cross country team will be led by Scott Shaw and Jason Meany. The 2002 Clemson men's cross country returns senior All-ACC honoree Jason Meany and junior all-region runner Scott Shaw, who will lead a cast of five returning harriers. Meany and Shaw will lend their leadership and experience to a team that will depend on a very young supporting cast of one junior, four sophomores, and two freshmen.

Sophomores David Adams, Ryan Fenton, Matt Pimentel, and Derrick Wyatt as well as junior David Smith each have a year of intercollegiate competition under their belt, and will continue to improve as they gain valuable collegiate running experience. Freshman Clay Pendleton, an all-state selection from Kentucky, will have an opportunity to contribute early along with Greg Isaacs, a freshman from Hampton Cove, AL who also earned all-state honors in high school.

"We have a young team with solid leadership in Shaw and Meany," said Pollock. "The outcome of the season will depend on the leadership of our experienced runners and how the younger runners adapt to the collegiate races. I am looking forward to a competitive season."

Meany, an ACC champion in the 5000m as well as an ACC scorer in the 10,000m, will lead the distance runners on the track. Pimentel, Fenton, Pendleton, Isaacs, and Smith will also compete in the 5000m and 10,000m.

In the middle distance events, junior Marcus Hodge is the Tigers' top returner in the 800m after earning All-ACC honors in the event in 2002. Senior Garrick Copes and Wyatt will provide depth and experience in the 800m. Shaw is expected to lead Clemson in the 1500m, and Barton, Adams, Pendleton, and Wyatt will also contribute in that event.

Clemson's sprint corps will continue its tradition of strength, depth, and experience. Seniors Jacey Harper and Otto Spain, sophomore Airese Currie, and junior Larry Griffin are expected to be the leaders for the 2002 sprints group. Harper, Spain, and Currie were members of the NCAA runnerup 4x100m relay team, earning All-America honors last year. Harper and Currie along with Griffin are also NCAA qualifiers in individual short sprint events. Besides qualifying for the national championships in the 60m indoor, 4x100m, and 4x400m relays, Harper won the 200m title at last year's ACC Indoor Championships and earned All-ACC honors in the 60m indoor. He then added another ACC title in the 4x100m relay outdoors. Spain, Griffin, and Currie were also members of the ACC Championship 4x100m relay team outdoor, and Spain qualified for the NCAA Championships as a member of the 4x400m relay team.

Individually, Griffin earned all-conference honors in the 60m indoor and the 200m outdoor as well as qualifying for the NCAA Championships in the 60m indoor and 4x100m relay outdoor. Sophomore Tye Hill, a football player who missed last season due to injury, will also return to the Tiger sprints after earning high school All-America honors in the 100m. Hill joins Currie as standouts who provide blazing speed on the gridiron for Tommy Bowden.

Clemson added several key freshmen to the sprint events in World Junior Athlete-of-the-Year Grafton Ifill as well as Robert Ibeh, the Cayman Islands National Champion in the 100m and 200m. Both Ifill and Ibeh will compete in the 60m, 100m, and 200m.

In the 400m, sophomores Michael Bolling, Ronald Richards, and Warren Eure, along with Spain and Harper will provide a solid foundation, while freshmen Roy Cheney and Ifill are expected to make an impact as well.

Cheney, who completed his high school career ranked third in the nation in the 400m hurdles, is also expected to compete in the 110m and 400m hurdles. A three-time Virginia state champion, fellow rookie Rashad Gardner will compete in the hurdle events. Bolling and junior Rick Hill are also expected to add depth in the 400m hurdles.

In the field events, the Tigers will be led by Hill (NCAA qualifier), a decathlete who was the ACC runnerup and earned Academic All-America honors in 2002. Ryan Hunter, Brent Hobbs, a red-shirt freshman who was a high school All-American, and former North Carolina state champion Chris Gross will complete a solid lineup of multi-event athletes.

Junior Terrance McDaniel will be the top returner for Clemson in the high jump. Freshman Matt Morgan, a high school record holder at Wake Forest-Rolesville, will combine with Hobbs, a decathlete to solidify that event.

McDaniel will also compete in the long and triple jumps, along with All-American senior Kai Maull and ACC triple jump runnerup Brit Barrow, a junior. The 2002 ACC Rookie-of-the-Year George Kitchens

All-American Otto Spain is among six seniors who hope to lead the Tigers back to the top of the ACC and NCAA ranks.

Note: Events at Clemson in bold.

will return to the Tigers' lineup in the long jump, and Ibeh, who has a personal best of 23'8", will add depth in the long jump as well.

Clemson's pole vaulters will be led by senior Ryan Lewis, the 2002 ACC Outdoor runnerup and the 2000 ACC outdoor champion. The Tigers' pole vault roster includes sophomore Andrew Kessler, who was a scorer for the Tigers at last year's conference meet, along with Adam Klotzbach, junior college All-American Ryan Hunter, freshman Chris Gross, and freshman Andy Lane, who won the AAU National Championship.

In the throws, junior Matt Lombardi, who was a scorer for Clemson at the ACC Championships, will be pushed by red-shirt freshman Derek Gilson. Freshman Daniel Alge, who was the South Carolina state champion in the discus, freshman Nate Wilson, and fellow rookie Othinn Thorsteinsson are also expected to be strong contenders for the Tigers.

This year will also see changes within the track and field qualifying structure. Indoor, the athletes will still be required to meet qualifying standards to compete at the NCAA Championships. However, a regional championship system will be in place for the outdoor season. Clemson will compete in the East Region, and the championships are to be held May 30-31 at George Mason University. The East Region will be very competitive, as it includes all NCAA Division I schools in states along the Eastern seaboard and the region includes the most number of schools of any in the country.

"I am looking forward to this season," said Pollock. "We have a very solid squad. Our goal is to return to the top at the ACC Championships, claim the first-ever East Region Outdoor Championship, and improve on our indoor and outdoor national finishes."

Anne Miller is an Assistant Sports Information Director and is in her third year at Clemson.

A Message to Our Boosters

Tiger fans, thank you for your support! As a fan, NCAA rules could define you as a "representative of our athletics' interests" or a "booster". Once identified as one, you hold this identity forever.

NCAA rules limit our booster's actions. Boosters may not try and persuade prospects, their family members or their coaches to attend a particular school. Additionally, boosters may not provide or arrange financial assistance, transportation or living expenses for a prospect, their families or friends. There are some NCAA rules that do allow boosters to help Clemson. For example, if you know of any outstanding prospects in your area, send information such as newspaper clippings to our coaches and let them contact the prospect on Clemson's behalf. You can also join IPTAY. IPTAY helps provide scholarship costs for Clemson's ten men's and nine women's teams.

Once a prospect becomes a college athlete NCAA rules prohibit anyone other than their family to provide benefits. A full scholarship covers basic educational needs, and those student-athletes with severe financial need can receive Pell grants up to $4,000 and they also can use funds from NCAA special assistance. NCAA rules strictly prohibit booster involvement with prospects and student-athletes. The penalties for ignoring these rules are too great. Help Clemson athletics operate free of booster problems. If you suspect a violation or have questions about a particular NCAA rule, call Clemson's compliance services.

Gambling

The Clemson athletic department asks for your cooperation in protecting intercollegiate athletics from the perils of gambling. Not only does the NCAA and Clemson oppose all forms of legal and illegal sports gambling, but it's against the law!

Did you know that sports wagering or gambling activities by Clemson athletic administrators, coaches and student-athletes are violations of NCAA rules and regulations? Please refuse to engage in these activities since penalties for these violations are severe. Violating these rules can result in permanent dismissal, suspension or loss of eligibility for your beloved Tigers.

The NCAA defines wagering and gambling activities as:

- Providing information to individuals involved in organized gambling activities involving NCAA events.
- Soliciting or accepting a bet for cash or prizes on Clemson or any NCAA team.
- Placing bets on any NCAA or professional athletic events through a bookmaker, parlay cards or other means used by organized gambling.

Amateurism & Agents

NCAA rules require student-athletes to maintain their amateur status if they want to participate in NCAA competition. Student-athletes will lose their amateur status if they use their skill for pay or accept promise of future pay while still competing for Clemson. Additionally, student-athletes may not sign a contract with a pro team, receive a salary or expenses from a pro team, compete on a pro team or ask to be placed in a pro draft, or enter into an agreement with an agent.

Once a student-athlete's intercollegiate athletic career is over and the student-athlete has interest in playing professionally, an agent is hired for the purpose of marketing their athletics ability. However, if a student-athlete with eligibility remaining enters into a verbal or written agreement with an agent before their eligibility is complete, they will no longer be able to compete for Clemson. In addition, student-athletes may not accept transportation, clothing, meals, lodging, or any benefit from an agent or agency without jeopardizing their eligibility. Please do not contact our athletes on behalf of any agent or agency.

Conclusion

NCAA rules are complex and at times may seem confusing. If you have questions or would like additional information regarding NCAA rules, contact Clemson compliance services through our e-mail, compliance-L@clemson.edu, or through our website at www.clemson.compliance/clem-compliance.html. Again, thank you for your support of Clemson and its athletics' program!

Clemson Tiger Sports Properties

Clemson Tiger Sports Properties supplies Tiger fans with a full day of broadcast each football Saturday. Each broadcast day has three programs, "Tiger Tailgate Show," "Game Day Broadcast," and the "Fifth Quarter Show."

A Clemson tradition since the 1970s, the "Tiger Tailgate Show," is a two-hour entertainment and interactive program produced from the stadium. In year's past, it has been done from the lawn at Littlejohn Coliseum in front of the Tiger statue. But due to renovations at that facility, the "Tailgate Show" will be produced on the lawn (at the corner) closest to Death Valley.

The program begins two hours prior to kickoff. Popular Greenville entertainers Love and Hudson along with Joe Erwin and Duane Evans play host to the show that is attended by many Clemson fans. It is the gathering place on gameday. Interviews with former Clemson players, games, display items, and pre-game excitement are all part of the program.

The game broadcast is anchored by Jim Phillips, the longtime voice of the Tigers. The legendary voice and Clemson Hall of Famer is in his 35th year broadcasting Clemson athletics. His career dates to 1968 when he provided commentary on games coached by Frank Howard. He is one of the most respected announcers in the nation and is the dean of all ACC announcers.

Joining Phillips in the broadcast booth will be former Clemson quarterback Rodney Williams. Also a member of the Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame, Williams worked the sidelines on Clemson broadcasts for six years. With Mike Eppley's retirement from the broadcast booth, Williams will join Phillips and provide color commentary. Williams is the winningest quarterback in Tiger history. He led the Tigers to 32 wins from 1985-88, including bowl wins over Stanford, Penn State, and Oklahoma.

Providing commentary and updates from the sideline will be Pete Yanity. The sports director at WSPA-TV in Spartanburg was a member of the broadcast team last year providing score updates during the game and by playing host to the post-game show. Yanity is one of the most knowledgeable broadcasters in the South and has covered Clemson football for over 15 years.

As has been the case in the past, the gameday broadcast will begin with the Tommy Bowden Pre-game Show. Bowden will meet with Jim Phillips to provide Clemson fans with the latest lineup and strategy information as his Tigers prepare for another competitive contest. Phillips, Williams, and Yanity will also provide a last minute scene setter that will include the latest lineup and weather information.

After the game, Yanity and former All-ACC Tiger Will Merritt will play host to the Fifth Quarter Show. Interviews with Coach Bowden and assistant coaches Brad Scott and John Lovett also will be included. An added feature will include lockerroom interviews with Clemson's top players that day. A rundown of the game's statistics and audio highlights will be provided. Scores and reports from the day's top games will also be provided.

Fans can also follow the Tigers by listening to "Tiger Calls" from area Ingles Grocery Stores, a one-hour program with Bowden and Phillips. This broadcast will air live each Thursday evening from 7:00 PM to 8:00 PM. It can be heard on most of the Clemson Tiger Sports Properties network affiliates. The show will begin Thursday evening, August 29.

Clemson Tiger Sports Properties also will produce the Tommy Bowden Show, a recap of the previous game's highlights. The program will give Clemson fans insight into the coaches decisions during the previous game and take an up close and personal look at some of your favorite players.

Broadcast Team

Jim Phillips, Voice of the Tigers

- Dean of all play by play broadcasters in the ACC, the 2002 football season will be his 35th behind the microphone.

Clemson fans look forward to seeing tough, hard-nosed football when they come to Death Valley or travel to other schools to watch their Tigers in action. But some of the Tigers' most intense competition and action doesn't take place on autumn Saturday's and it doesn't take place on a field. Take a peek into the Clemson Strength Training Room at almost any time of day, almost any day of the week, at any time of the year, and you will see the Tigers building the foundation for their pursuit of a championship.

Perhaps the most impressive characteristic of the facility is its size. Several years ago, it was enlarged to an astounding 11,000 square feet, making it one of the largest in the nation. In 1998, it was expanded to 14,000 square feet. The facility boasts two full lines of Nautilus machines and over 12 tons of weights. The large number of machines and free weights allows the weight room to be used by athletes from several other sports at the same time, without anyone having to wait in line at a particular station.

Within the last three years the dumbbell area and leg development areas were expanded as well as the nutrition and hydration area known as the Power Station. The Power Station features the energy and recovery drink to aid each athlete's recovery from intense training.

The plush atmosphere provides an interesting contrast to the physical exertion that takes place in the facility. When an athlete enters the etched glass doors, he is greeted by plush, wall-to-wall carpeting, walls lined with mirrors, ceiling fans, and music from a 26-speaker sound system - a worthy backdrop for well over $500,000 worth of state-of-the-art equipment.

Color television monitors are also positioned throughout the facility. These monitors are used for training and instruction, as strength coaches film the athletes and work with them on form correction.

The large staff of four full-time strength coaches, four graduate assistants, numerous student assistants, and volunteers ensures that each football player receives proper instruction on the fundamentals of strength and speed development. Training programs at Clemson are position specific and designed to meet the needs and demands of each athlete. Also, each position is appointed a full-time strength coach that serves as a personal trainer throughout his/her career.

Hard core training and competition in the weight room and the annual Ironman Classic will help each athlete reach optimal levels in strength and speed development. The Tiger Strength Training and Nutrition Program help each athlete to become a complete player.

BREAK FROM TRADITION.

Traditionally, rich aesthetics, cost-effectiveness and color haven't gone hand in hand. If you wanted fashion color, you had to go to a specialty boutique and it wasn't going to be cheap. With Voridian's Chromspun® and Estron® yarns — you can have your cake and eat it too.

Chromspun solution dyed acetate yarn is available in a wide range of fashion colors and can also be produced in custom colors. It complements our popular Estron line of white yarns. Plus, we make all Voridian® yarns in the USA. As a matter of fact, Chromspun is the only colored acetate yarn made in America. That's a tradition we're proud of.

If you're from around here, you know the music of a mountain creek. You know the green river rocks are slicker than the orange ones. And you know that with a few flat rocks and some falling water, Mother Nature makes a pretty amazing playground. You see, we think it's our job to know you well, to discover things that don't appear on a checking account application or the back of an ATM card. We believe knowing people better makes us... well, better people. You'd be surprised how it makes us a better bank. Carolina First. We have a pretty good sense of where we are.

Vickery Hall

Since its inception in 1991, the five-faceted Student-Athlete Enrichment Program has provided its student-athletes a continued commitment to excellence. Our approach is to address the total student-athlete, and we are committed to coaching our student-athletes to success (C.A.T.S.) not only in the athletic arena but in the academic, personal growth, career, and service arenas as well. As an original member of the NCAA Life Skills/CHAMPS Program, we provide opportunities and services to address the changing needs and skills of student-athletes in the years during college and after graduation.

Clemson University's commitment to provide its student-athletes with the very best of facilities is evident in many ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium, to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all 19 of Clemson's varsity sports have the very best in facilities for training and competition. Vickery Hall is no exception, as the $3 million structure is as impressive aesthetically as any of the other facilities. But the importance of Vickery Hall to the Clemson University Athletic Department is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in the spring of 1991 and was the first facility in the country built solely for the all-around academic support of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000 square-foot building is open throughout the day and into the evening to accommodate the extended schedules of student-athletes.

The mission of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is to monitor, guide, and encourage student-athletes to fulfill their long-term goals, and to achieve their academic and career potential.

Vickery Hall focuses on five primary areas to meet the student-athlete's needs.

Academic Commitment

The academic commitment aspect of Clemson's Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has provided one of the best academic support and advising programs in the nation.

Clemson student-athletes posted an overall GPA of 2.85, the highest on record, for the spring semester of 2002. A record 37 student-athletes earned selection to the President's List with a perfect 4.0 for the semester, while 104 made the Dean's List, just one off the all-time semester record.

Two-hundred-and-twenty-one Clemson student-athletes earned at least a 3.0 or better for the semester, meaning nearly 50 percent of all Clemson student-athletes were on the academic honor roll. Seven of the 15 programs had a semester GPA of at least 3.0.

The Clemson football team had a 2.56 team GPA for the semester, second best on record behind the 2.58 achieved in the spring of 2001. Each of the top-five semester GPAs achieved by the Clemson football program have taken place within the seven semesters Tommy Bowden has served as head coach. Nine Clemson football players graduated last year, meaning 18 of the 22 seniors who dressed for the Humanitarian Bowl earned their degrees.

Many prominent Clemson athletes were named to the academic honor roll. Kyle Young and Chad Carson, both first-team Academic All-Americans in 2001, concluded their Clemson academic careers with a perfect 4.0 semester in the classroom.

The Academic Counselors perform a variety of duties to track academic progress. These duties include providing assistance in registration and scheduling, contacting faculty, personally checking classes, recording information, counseling sessions with student-athletes, providing diagnostic testing, and directing career aspirations.

One of the most prestigious programs that has received recognition essential to the growth of Vickery Hall is the tutorial program.

Of 450 tutoring programs certified by CRLA, the Clemson Student-Athlete Enrichment Program was one of the first three student-athlete programs in the country to be granted all three levels of certification from the College of Reading and Learning Association, International Tutor Certification Program. The program was also honored with the National Champs Skills Excellence Award in 1999, one of only six schools across the country to be honored.

Having tutor certification allows student-athletes to be provided the highest quality of academic assistance possible. Approximately 80 tutors are hired to provide academic support in the many subject areas offered.

Many post-graduate scholarships and internships are also available to student-athletes continuing their education through postgraduate studies. Our student-athletes are provided timely information regarding these opportunities and the resources necessary to assist in the application process for either scholarships or internships.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has recognized the need for students to have access to high-quality computing equipment and has made a commitment to provide the student-athletes at Clemson with one of the largest computer labs in the country. Located on the first floor of Vickery Hall is the Dick Hendley Micro-computer Laboratory. The lab is open seven days a week, for 16 hours on Monday through Thursday, and a limited time on the weekend. Vickery Hall is now a "wireless facility" which allows students in the building with laptop computers to access the campus mainframe without physically plugging into the system.

The Dick Hendley Computer Lab is one of the areas of Vickery Hall that make it one of the top facilities of its kind nationally.

The lab staff has a full-time computer manager, and also graduate students, many of whom are pursuing advanced degrees in computer science. Lab staff members are available for tutoring of any Computer Science course, as well as the many management, engineering, and business courses that deal with personal computers.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is committed to providing state-of-the-art computing facilities. New computers have recently been purchased bringing the lab to a state of the art facility. More than 50 computers are available for student-athletes.

All computers are fully connected to the internet allowing for access of computers throughout the world for research and communication.

Personal Development Commitment

One of the most important programs that helps student-athletes reach their full potential and engage successfully in this college experience is the Personal Growth and Development Program.

One of the key components of this program is the first-semester freshman transition class designed to assist the student-athlete in making a successful transition into his/her university and athletic life. All first-semester freshmen attend a semester-long series of workshops targeting the transitional issues of time management, organizational strategies, health and wellness issues, athletic issues, diversity issues, career orientation, and service training. Throughout the academic year, all student-athletes are required to attend four large-group programs, which focus on pertinent social, health, and athletic issues.

Career Development Commitment

The Career Assistance Program provides student-athletes an opportunity to fulfill career aspirations by participating in various career seminars offered by the Vickery Hall staff. The philosophy of this program is to provide student-athletes with job-searching skills and strategies, internships, practical experience, and summer employment. These programs are designed to address specific career opportunities and acquire information about the student-athletes for each year.

By using the resources available to the University, Alumni Center, and the Athletic Department, the staff is working to establish a network of businesses, companies, and executives who will help assist with the Summer Employment Assistance Program. The program's main goal is to provide the student-athletes with job experience and a work history, which he or she can apply to his or her academic discipline.

The Career Assistance Program is coordinated from the academic colleges, the Placement Center, and through the Athletic Department contacts. This program is designed to better prepare the student-athlete for full-time employment and focuses on resume writing and interview techniques.

The SAEP career assistance program has a full-time career counselor housed in Vickery Hall. Unique to our program, the career counselor is a member of the Michelin Career Center staff as well as the Student-Athlete Enrichment staff. This link between athletics and the Michelin Career Center provides student athletes the most up-to-date information and resources in career development and preparation for entrance into the job market upon graduation.

Service Commitment

Providing community and outreach service to student-athletes and the surrounding community by engaging the student-athletes in hands-on interactive programs is an important aspect of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs. The staff of SAEP coordinates various activities each year to engage student-athletes in community outreach projects along with academic programs.

Another aspect of the service commitment is that of community service. The purpose of community service is to allow the student-athletes to become involved with the happenings of the community while giving back at the same time. Each year every team is required to perform at least two community outreach projects. Recently implemented was a new community service program entitled Success Away From the Game. The purpose of this program is to combine athletes of different sports in community outreach programs. By doing this, each outreach program participates, thus creating a diverse group of athletes with new and different ideas. At the end of each year, six student-athletes who have demonstrated outstanding commitment and contributions to the community are recognized as the Top Six by the ACC.

LifeLine, another aspect of community service, consists of chosen football players who work together in specific community outreach projects. LifeLine has approximately 20 members along with a president, vice president and secretary. Once a month, these young men meet to discuss future projects. To date, they have sponsored Hi-Five Day, planted a garden at Helping Hands Children Shelter, and held reading programs at elementary schools. These young men have vital roles in both the community and the athletic arena.

To assist our student-athletes in becoming effective service leaders and communicators, we provide service and speaking training, which anticipates the demands placed on a student-athlete when he or she might be speaking with a group of young people or also speaking with members of the media.

Athletic Commitment

Nine Clemson athletic teams posted top-25 finishes in 2001-02, contributing to Clemson's #27 finish in the Sears Director's Cup. Clemson set a school record for points scored in that national ranking and the finish was its best in four years. Clemson had 29 All-Americans, its third-highest total ever.

Clemson had a spring to remember as the Clemson golf, men's track and field, and baseball teams all finished in the top four in the nation. It marked the first time in school history that three different sports finished in the "Final Four" in the same spring. Clemson was the only school in the nation to finish in the top four in all three of those men's spring sports. The women's track and field and rowing teams also finished in the final top 25 during the spring.

Clemson boasted some of its greatest athletes in history in 2001-02. Clemson became the second school in history to have the National Player-of-the-Year in golf and baseball in the same academic year. D.J. Trahan won the Jack Nicklaus Award as the top player in college golf, while baseball shortstop Khalil Greene was national Player-of-the-Year according to the Baseball Coaches Association, Collegiate Baseball, Baseball America, and many other services. Women's track and field All-American Jamine Moton won the NCAA Outdoor championship in the hammer throw.

WE'RE NOT THROWIN' UP BRICKS

South Carolina Steel Corporation had the ideal game plan for Littlejohn Coliseum when the Tigers needed a new roof. We teamed with C.P. Buckner to provide an innovative solution for a complex, schedule-driven dilemma.

Replacing the Tigers 90,000 square foot roof structure with 950 tons of steel in 10 weeks wasn't easy. In fact, many doubted the Tigers could start their new season in Littlejohn.

South Carolina Steel Corporation and C.P. Buckner beat the shot clock and scored, replacing the roof with a stronger, better looking structure.

With over 50 years of experience designing and building structural steel solutions, South Carolina Steel Corporation knows the game. The next time you need to score big, call us at 864-244-2860.

IPTAY Endowment Program

IPTAY is widely regarded nationally as the father of Athletic Fundraising. It all started in 1934 and from a private meeting of a small group of Clemson supporters has sprung into an organization that raised a record $16 million in 2001. The organization plays a major role in ensuring that all 19 of the varsity sports at Clemson are given the maximum amount of scholarships offered by the NCAA.

The organization also has helped finance facilities that contribute to the well-being of student-athletes on and off the field. Vickery Hall is a 27,000 square-foot facility that houses the tutoring and advising programs for student-athletes. It is a major reason Clemson student-athletes have had their highest cumulative GPA on record for five consecutive semesters.

While IPTAY is primarily concerned with athletic fundraising, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Endowment was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are highly qualified academically. The IPTAY Academic Scholarship Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of its kind at Clemson, currently helping more than 40 students at Clemson.

IPTAY Executive Director George Bennett has continued to keep Clemson among the best in the nation in terms of fund-raising by the establishment of the IPTAY Endowment Program. In April of 1994, he kicked off the beginning of the endowment of positions program at the 85th birthday celebration for former Clemson Coach Frank Howard. The endowments are secure with a $100,000 donation paid over a five-year period.

"This is a chance to broaden the horizons of IPTAY," said Bennett. "It gives an individual or a group of people an opportunity to endow a position that meant something during their college days, or to honor a person at a position. The money being endowed is going to secure our future as the interest is used to carry on our program forever."

The first endowment was for the head football coach position to honor the legendary Frank Howard. Howard coached football at Clemson 39 years, 30 as the head coach. During his tenure, the Tigers won 165 games, 100 of which were against conference foes.

"Former players and friends of Coach Howard made donations over the cost of attending the celebration program and that was enough for the endowment. Their gifts were a way of permanently thanking Coach Howard for all that he did for Clemson."

"Following Coach Howard's birthday party, we began to look for an individual to help us support and promote the program, and Bill Hudson's name came up. He was an outstanding player at Clemson who has been equally successful in the business world. We went to him and explained the program and its goals, and that we were looking for his leadership to help get the program going, and he accepted."

Hudson, a 1956 Clemson graduate, was a three-year letterwinner at tackle who played professionally for the Montreal Alouettes, the San Diego Chargers, and the Boston Patriots. He earned Pro Bowl honors in 1962. Mr. Hudson sees this program growing into a large part of Clemson's athletic funding.

"When other people see information on the endowment program and learn what it is about this program will grow. Success builds on success. People who are looking to honor a friend or family member now have a great means to do that."

Besides the Hudson's family endowment, four other football endowments were made, and one managers position in the first year. Now there are more than 90 positions endowed. The goal of the program is to get every position endowed.

"From the free safety to the #3 player in women's tennis, we hope to have every position endowed," said Bennett.

"We will likely use the Avenue of Champions as a physical place to honor these people further for the positions they have endowed. That will have plenty of space, so we will be working to have as many endowments across all of our sports."

"The personal satisfaction that they helped Clemson University, specifically the athletic department, and that they are securing its future are the main reasons for becoming involved."

And with more involvement, Clemson University will have a very secure future for generations to come.

by Brent Breedin

The 1950s was a watershed decade for Clemson football.

Five teams (1950, 1951, 1956, 1958, and 1959) finished the season ranked in the top 20 of the final AP poll and played in bowl games; two others (1955 and 1957) had 7-3 records and certainly would have played in a bowl by today's standards; the undefeated 1950 Tigers were the first Clemson team to rank among the nation's "top ten" at season's end; and the 11th-ranked 1959 Tigers would have duplicated the "top-ten" feat had a post-bowl poll been taken by the Associated Press following their win over #7 Texas Christian in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

So what about the 1952 team? This is the 50th anniversary of a milestone year in Clemson football history. Many of those players are back on campus this weekend for a reunion.

The calendar year opened with Coach Frank Howard's third bowl team in four years, opposing Miami (FL) for the second-straight year on New Year's Day - this time in the Gator Bowl. Perhaps an omen of things to come in 1952 was unranked Miami's 14-0 win over #19 Clemson to avenge the Tigers' 1951 Orange Bowl victory.

Several weeks later, Clemson was informed by the Southern Conference of its punishment for playing in the 1952 bowl in defiance of the conference - cancellation of its conference games for the 1952 season. Yes, strange as it may seem, Clemson was put on probation by its own conference for going to a bowl game. My how times have changed. Maryland suffered the same fate for playing in the 1952 Sugar Bowl.

At least the conference had no problem with Clemson and Maryland filling the vacant spots in their schedules as best they could - unlike the NCAA, which cancelled the 1952-53 Kentucky basketball season during that time period.

In fact, Clemson and Maryland were allowed to play each other for the first time (currently the Tigers' longest ACC consecutive-game rivalry at 51 this season); and by state law, Clemson and South Carolina were required to play on "Big Thursday" (that rivalry will be played for the 100th time this fall).

So, in the spring of 1952, Coach Howard kept busy juggling what was left of his original schedule for the year so as to have at least nine games. He succeeded, but in doing so, he came up with what appeared to be the toughest Tiger football slate in history - and with the final seven games on the road.

Clemson's veteran coaching staff was undaunted by the challenge and looked forward to a strong year. There were lettermen at every position on both offense and defense, and tailback Billy Hair was a viable Heisman Trophy candidate. Most Valuable Player in the 1951 Orange Bowl game as a sophomore, #77's total offense stats of 1,702 yards as a junior in 1951 were the best of any Division I football player returning to action in 1952.

And Hair had plenty of help, including fullbacks Lawrence Gressette and Jim Shirley, who together rushed for 1,054 yards in 1951; freshman wingback sensation Buck George, now a sophomore; and blocking back George Rodgers. Missing was All-South end Glenn Smith, whose 18 touchdown receptions remain a Clemson career record to this day - and they were caught in a 30-game career, but returning after missing the 1951 season with a broken leg was 1950 standout Dreher Gaskin.

On defense, eight starters off the 1951 team returned, including the secondary of safety Peter Cook and cornerbacks Fred Knoebel and Archie Baker, who were unscored on through the air in 1951.

The bad news going into the opener against Presbyterian was that Gaskin had broken his other leg in practice and that Baker, who was looking good at offensive end after moving to that spot from cornerback, had been knocked out of action for several weeks on the last play of the last day (Wednesday) of "hitting" before Saturday.

Even so, on paper everything went smoothly this time 50 years ago: tailbacks Hair and Don King each ran and passed for touchdowns; wingback Buck George rushed for a school-record 204 yards and scored three touchdowns; and fullbacks Gressette and Shirley each scored a touchdown. Clemson's 53-13 victory was a played before a record season-opening crowd of 18,000.

In the training room after the game, and during the week leading up to the September 27 final home game against a Villanova team that had beaten Coach Bear Bryant's Kentucky team 25-6, the week before, it was a different story. Hair's shoulder and King's knee made them doubtful, while fullbacks Gressette and Shirley were also injured. All four played hurt and gained a total of 94 yards rushing in 36 carries. Villanova won 14-7, as All-American Gene Phillips, held to under two yards per carry his first 16 carries, broke loose for a 60-yard scoring run in the latter stages of the game.

The seven games on the road that followed went like this: Maryland 28, Clemson 0; Florida 54, Clemson 13; South Carolina 6, Clemson 0;

Clemson 13, Boston College 0; Clemson 12, Fordham 12; Kentucky 27, Clemson 14; Auburn 3, Clemson 0. Barring the Tigers' war-time 1943 season with a record of 2-6, the 2-6-1 mark was Coach Howard's poorest in 30 seasons as head coach.

Perhaps the less said about the season the better. It was one of continuous injuries and even bad bounces (South Carolina scored its only touchdown when a short Gamecock punt bounced against veteran cornerback Baker, setting up a block for what he assumed would be a Tiger return. Carolina recovered, and quarterback Johnny Gramling completed a short pass for the game's only score.)

Though Clemson was never at full strength, Hair reminded fans what he could do in running like a "hare" against Boston College - 127 yards in seven carries before injuring a knee early in the fourth quarter. And the Boston College victory was a high point in the career of defensive guard Tom "Black Cat" Barton, who sacked Eagle backs for almost as many yards as they gained. (Barton went on to make All-South and the Players All-America second team. He played in the Chicago All-Star Game in August, 1953, but decided to pass up a pro career in favor of a career in education.)

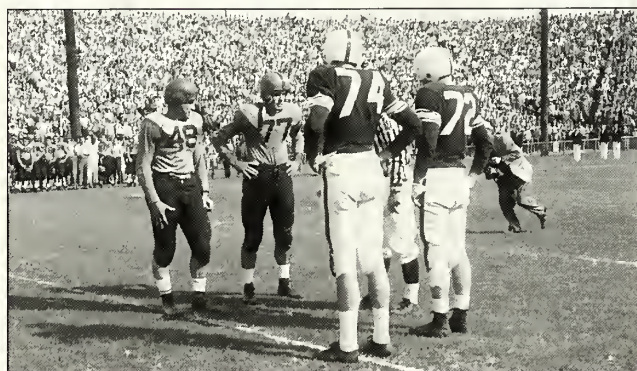

And the next week in New York City, King started his first game in place of Hair and rushed for almost 250 yards in the first half against Fordham's strong defenders - ranked #1 in the nation at the time. Early in the second half, King reinjured his knee as the Tigers held on for a 12-12 tie.

And against Auburn, there was one final bad bounce. In the final minutes of a scoreless-tie game with Auburn, the injured Hair subbed for the injured King. His pass attempt was partially blocked in Clemson territory and fell into the arms of a legally blind Auburn tackle who stumbled forward enough to set up a winning field goal.

While the 1952 season was not one of Clemson's finest, the Tigers did face a tough schedule, as Maryland, Florida, and Kentucky all finished in the final top 20 of the AP poll, the first time in history Clemson faced three teams that finished in the final ranking. Plus, Villanova ended the year with a 7-1-1 record.

It was a trying season, but one that set the groundwork for outstanding Clemson teams to come. Clemson would finish the decade with the 15th-best winning percentage in college football. Only the 1980s rank higher in Clemson history.

Brent Breedin served as Clemson Sports Information Director from 1952-55, and is now retired and living in Greenville, SC.

CLEMSON TIGERS...

It's time to tackle your hunger!

And with BI-LO close by, no "snack attack" will ever get through. BI-LO has everything you need for game day tailgating!

CLEMSON TIGERS
AND BI-LO.
NOW THAT'S A DREAM TEAM!

by Bryant Stone

The Clemson Tigers will face off against the Ball State Cardinals today for the first time in over 10 years and for just the second time in school history. This early-season matchup between inter-conference opponents should help set the tone for the remainder of both teams' seasons. These schools met on the gridiron for the first time on September 5, 1992, when Clemson opened its season with a 24-10 victory here in Death Valley.

The band that played in the stands that day will be the same band in the corner endzone stands today. That band, which has been "Shakin' the Southland" ever since, will entertain fans both in the stands and on the field. This band goes by the name of the Clemson University Tiger Band.

The Tiger Band, under the command of Director Dr. Mark Spede, is pleased to present a featured section of the band for today's game. This week, the band honors the nine members of the Tiger Band Flag Line. The Flag Line will be the feature presentation of today's halftime show.

According to Dr. Spede, the theme of this week's halftime show is entitled "Jazz." The first selection to be played is a 'sunshine' medley consisting of two different tunes; the first of these tunes is titled "You are the Sunshine of My Life," and the second is titled "You are My Sunshine."

Following the 'sunshine' medley, the band will play a selection called "My Favorite Things." This selection is taken from the "Sound of Music" and was both written and composed by Richard Rogers.

"We had a very specific reason in mind when we chose to include 'My Favorite Things' in the halftime show," said Spede. "The date of today's game marks what would have been the 100th birthday of Mr. Rogers. We wanted to commemorate such a momentous date."

In addition, the Flag Line will be featured during the presentation of this song. Instructor Kathy Crouse leads the Flag Line. The Tiger Band will conclude its halftime presentation with a song titled "Autumn Leaves."

Prior to the start of today's game, the band will perform the 2002 version of its fabled traditional pregame. The pregame will showcase "God Bless America," the "Star Spangled Banner," and the Clemson University Alma Mater. The show will continue with the "Orange Bowl March," where the band spells out "Tigers" in script. While getting into position, the band changes its tune to "Tiger Rag."

Following the pregame agenda, the band will wait for the arrival of the Clemson team buses at the top of the Hill for the "most exciting 25 seconds in college football." After the players get off the buses, they will rub Howard's Rock, and then run down the Hill and through the tunnel formed by the band. The band will conclude its pregame ceremonies with the playing of "Tiger Rag" while the players run through the tunnel.

Remember that you can take home the sounds of Tiger Band by purchasing the group's CD "Shakin' the Southland." The CD features 30 famous Tiger fan favorites from previous football seasons. It includes "Sock It To 'Em," "Eye of the Tiger," and the Clemson Alma Mater. The CD is available at the Tiger Band Office (119 Brooks Center) for $15. To order by mail, send a check payable to CUTBA for $17 ($15 plus $2 shipping and handling) to CUTBA c/o Clemson Tiger Band, 119 Brooks Center, Clemson, SC 29634-1505.

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness
Where the Tigers play
Here the sons of dear old Clemson
Reign supreme alway

Chorus
Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might
That the Tigers' roar may echo

Making South Carolina Roadways Safer for You

THERE'S A LOT MORE TO CLEMSON THAN FOOTBALL.

A civil engineering professor and students are partnering with the S.C. Department of Transportation to develop a new way to assess the strength of bridges. Currently, bridge strength is determined from known information, including inspection of visible cracks or other signs of stress, coupled with standard structural engineering equations to predict capacity. Clemson's method uses sensors to measure the actual stress in bridge members from traffic loads along with computer models to more accurately predict bridge strength. That saves money for SCDoT and makes the road safer for all of us.

It had been a long drought at Clemson going into the 1977 season. No bowl game since 1959 and only one winning season in the previous nine years. Plus, to open the season, the Tigers had lost a hard-fought game against defending ACC Champion Maryland in Death Valley, 21-14.

However, despite the prolonged drought, anyone who was around the 1977 Clemson football team got the sense that there was a new attitude, a renewal of confidence and dedication. The 25-year anniversary of that landmark season will be celebrated today as many of the players from that team return to Clemson today.

In 1977, I was a sophomore on the soccer team at Clemson. As the football team struggled in the previous years, the soccer program had become one of the best in the nation. Yet, in the basement of the Jervy Athletic Center, where both our locker rooms were located, you could not help but notice the change in the football program going into that year.

In the training room we shared, there was no mistaking that a transformation had taken place in the spring and accelerated into the fall. Even my talented soccer teammates from South America, the Middle East, the Caribbean, and Africa, who did not completely understand American football, instinctively knew that the football team had developed a winning attitude. They were also caught up in the excitement, particularly when one of our teammates would play a key role in the football team's success.

The quiet metamorphosis started in December, 1976, when the late Charley Pell was elevated to head coach after being the Clemson defensive coordinator. Pell brought in seven new coaches, including future Head Coach Danny Ford. Three of the other six went on to become collegiate head coaches. Mickey Andrews has gone on to be the defensive coordinator on two Florida State national championship teams.

At the same time in 1977, players like Steve Fuller, Jerry Butler, Joe Bostic, Jeff Bostic, Jimmy Weeks, Steve Kenney, and Lacy Brumley assumed full-time starting roles on offense. On defense, Archie Reese, Steve Ryan, Randy Scott, Rex Varn, Jonathan Brooks, and Jim Stuckey became the anchors on an aggressive, disruptive defense.

Freshman punter Dave Sims and first-year field-goal kicker Obed Ariri (from the soccer team) helped make the Clemson special teams effective and consistent weapons. Many of these players would go on to have long careers in the NFL. Five would earn Super Bowl championship rings and others would play on Super Bowl teams.

In hindsight, who could have missed that this team was destined for greatness?

Well, for starters, just about everyone. Clemson was coming off 2-9 and 3-6-2 seasons in 1975 and 1976, respectively. In the second game of the 1977 season on September 17, the Tigers were traveling to Athens, GA to take on the defending SEC Champion Georgia Bulldogs. Clemson was 0-1 and had not won in Athens since 1914.

The soccer team was scheduled to play Alabama-Huntsville the next day, so I sat in my dorm room on the soccer team's floor in Norris Hall listening to Jim Phillips call the game on the radio. It was an overcast, wet day. The game was scoreless at halftime and you could hear students outside the window talking in quiet, cautiously optimistic tones. The memory of Georgia's 41-0 win in Death Valley in 1976 was still fresh on everyone's mind.

In the third quarter, tailback Lester Brown scored on a three-yard run to put Clemson ahead 7-0. The Clemson defense continued to dig in as the game seemed to inch along at a snail's pace. Of course, the Bulldogs did not go quietly. As was their trademark under Head Coach Vince Dooley, the "Dawgs" came back to score on a seven-yard pass with 20 seconds left. Dooley went for the victory, not the tie. But, the two-point conversion pass fell harmlessly to the ground in the right corner of the endzone, giving Clemson a 7-6 victory.

As the final gun sounded, Phillips let us all hear the roar of the Clemson fans in Sanford Stadium. Meanwhile, Clemson students commenced their own celebration on campus. Students came out of their dorms screaming at the top of their lungs. Music seemed to blare from every window. You could hear car horns all across campus. Spontaneous parties sprang up everywhere. Downtown taverns became loud, boisterous, and packed.

A throng of students and fans waited to greet the team when it arrived back at Mauldin Hall. Clemson students celebrated with characteristic staying power throughout the night. I remember because even though I was enjoying the moment, I was not having any luck getting to sleep in preparation for Sunday's soccer game.

The Georgia game launched the Tigers on a seven-game winning streak until a 13-13 tie at North Carolina. The following week in Death Valley, the Tigers led eventual national champions Notre Dame 17-7 in the fourth quarter. However, Joe Montana led the Irish back to a 21-17 victory.

The Tigers' 18-year bowl drought ended when Clemson earned a berth in the Gator Bowl following a thrilling 31-27 comeback win at South Carolina thanks to the immortal, last second Fuller-to-Butler touchdown pass, which will be forever termed as "The Catch." Clemson finished 8-3-1 in 1977 and followed up with an 11-1 season in 1978.

Looking back, the seeds of rebirth for Clemson football were planted in the spring of 1977 by Charley Pell and nurtured by a young, aggressive coaching staff. They were harvested by a group of young, confident players whose work ethic and dedication to success was validated on that memorable, historic day in Athens, GA.

Oh yeah, by the way, we beat Alabama-Huntsville 4-0 the next day in soccer and went on to an undefeated regular season. I remember there was a deafening silence all across campus on that September 18, 1977, and there were not quite as many students as usual at our game. I guess they slept through the wakeup call.

The 1977 season had many highlights, but Jerry Butler's catch to beat South Carolina certainly stands out.

David McGrew played soccer at Clemson from 1976-79, and in the off-season worked as a student assistant in the Clemson Sports Information office. After graduating from Clemson, he worked in the athletic department at Georgia for three years and with Host Communications for 12 years. Today, McGrew is President and CEO of MCS Marketing, Inc., and lives with his wife and two young children in Akron, OH.
